Bias Charges Prompt L.B. Hiring Probe

By VERN SMITH
Staff Writer

The California Fair Employment Practices Commission, acting on a request from the Long Beach NAACP chapter, Friday authorized a full-scale investigation of the city's hiring practices.

The NAACP, in a Dec. 21 letter to FEPC deputy chief Roger Taylor, citing alleged discriminatory employment practices by the city of Long Beach, requested "a formal investigation into the city's hiring practices, specifically how it relates to its minority citizens."

In the letter, the NAACP said it was basing its request for the probe on its own investigations and on portions of a lengthy study of the Long Beach black community by the Independent Press-Telegram, published last November.

The commission, holding its monthly meeting at the State building in downtown Los Angeles, unanimously approved the request for an investigation.

Commission chairman

Pier Gherini, a Santa Barbara attorney, appointed commissioner Donald L. Diers to work with members of the commission staff to conduct the investigation.

Diers, appointed to the commission in April of 1970 by Gov. Reagan, is a personnel and industrial relations expert with the El Segundo Division of Hughes Aircraft.

Jack O'Neil, special assistant to City Manager John R. Mansell, said the city "welcomed any investigation of the FEPC into our hiring practices."

"We feel that we are an equal opportunity employer and have been since the

Tiny Lomita Girl Wedged in Shaft

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

The spirit of Kathy Fiscus hovered like a guardian angel over a construction site in Lomita Friday as rescue workers waged a frantic—and successful—five-hour battle to free a three-year-old girl trapped in a 10-inch-wide shaft.

Alycia Hernandez of 2215 250th St., Lomita — only four houses away from the cramped 12-foot shaft where she clung to life — fell into the hole at 12:30 p.m. as she and a group of playmates ran from construction workers who had ordered them to quit playing on a pile of dirt.

For nearly two months the Matt J. Zaich Construction Co. has been building a 20-foot-square storm drain channel along 250th Street in front of Alycia's home. With the concrete box structure now completed the workers had spent the morning using a giant crane to pull the 10-by-10-inch steel girders supporting the construction forms out of the ground.

THE HOLE into which Alycia fell, and two or three others near it, were all that had not yet been covered by a two-foot layer of dirt when the men took their lunch break.

County fire units under Battalion Commander Paul Schneider were called at 12:33 p.m., but even before they arrived the construction crew had jockeyed a back-hoe excavator into position and begun digging a trench 10 feet away and parallel to the storm drain, to tunnel to the weeping child.

Her mother, Ernestine Hernandez, 30, had stood helplessly by as firemen lowered a rope down the gritty shaft but were unable to pull the child to safety.

"I shouted down the hole to her," the distraught woman said later, "But I couldn't get her to stop crying and answer me."

Mrs. Hernandez said the girl had been playing in the back yard with her brother, Jose, 2, earlier.

"I TRIED to keep them out of the front yard, but I guess if (the dirt pile) was just too attractive to them," she said.

Throughout the long ordeal she remained calm and assured, drawing strength and comfort from her husband Jose, 27, and the parish priest, Fr. Harold Cremens of St. Margaret Mary Church.

The parallel trench technique, was the same rescue method attempted in 1949 while the world held its breath for 49 hours and 18 minutes to see if Kathy Fiscus could be dug out of a 100-foot-deep abandoned water well in San Marino.

Then-infant television zoomed in on the grime-and-tear-streaked faces of rescue workers when Kathy's lifeless body was finally brought to the surface.

But Alycia had many factors in her favor that

Nixon's 'Neato' Copter Delights Catalina Kids

Small fry on Catalina Island had a rare treat Friday — President Nixon paid a visit and let the youngsters inspect the interior of his private jet helicopter.

Some of the kids' parents were also included in the "tour" of the specially-built aircraft.

The Chief Executive was accompanied on the two-hour excursion 40 miles across the Pacific from his San Clemente villa by his daughter, Tricia, 21, and his best friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla.

The President was attired in grey slacks, light blue sports jacket, white shirt and checked tie. He was in a jaunty mood and invited the amazed youngsters to wander through his helicopter, Marine 1.

AFTERWARD, the children gave their wholehearted approval.

Karen Ross, 10, said, "That's neato!" "Oh, man, it's the biggest thing I ever saw in my life," said Pat Pindexter, 17. "He sure lives in style."

The President's jaunt to 22-mile long Catalina came as a surprise to its mayor, Harvey H. Cowell, a Democrat. Cowell said he was notified 30 minutes before Nixon arrived.

The President landed at 3:19 p.m. at the island airport. Then he boarded a Volkswagen bus and, escorted by the local sheriff, toured the island with its rolling green hills.

The children on bicycles began to follow him and to shout to others to join the parade. When he got to the center of town, Nixon got out of his bus and began chatting with the townsfolk of Avalon.

He signed autographs and talked a bit of football, telling one man that he approved of the choice of George Allen, former Los Angeles Rams' coach, to be the new coach of the Washington Redskins.

HE WAS surrounded by children and some of the older folks stuck out their hands to gain his attention. One man told the President, "I'm all for you — stay with it, kid. Keep pitching."

When a reporter asked Nixon how he felt about his 58th birthday Saturday, the President waved away the questioner. Then a little girl piped up that her 12th birthday would be on Sunday and Nixon handed her a presidential pen, saying, "Here's a present for you."

As he signed autographs, Nixon was told by one couple that "we voted for you every time."

Then Nixon told the crowd, "I've got to go. I have to make a phone call." He waved and got back into his bus for the short drive to the helicopter.

Cambodia Subject of Laird Talks

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird discussed Indochina with top civilian and military officials today giving special attention to the Communist threat against Cambodia's fuel supplies. A spokesman for the U.S. command said Laird met with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and military commander Gen. Creighton Abrams in talks expected to last all day.

High on the agenda, according to sources, was a discussion of Cambodia, where a tightening Communist stranglehold on supply routes has led to a fuel shortage and electricity rationing in capital Phnom Penh.

Mass Viet Cong Defection

SAIGON — The Viet Cong radio broadcast Friday a Communist blueprint for 1977 that included a pledge to destroy the U.S. pacification program in South Vietnam. At the same time, the South Vietnamese government announced two mass defections involving 55 Viet Cong, 17 of whom were identified as political leaders. Prime Minister Tran Thien Khai hailed this and other recent defections as a victory for the government's campaign of psychological warfare in the countryside.

Russ Air Crash Kills 90 Plus

MOSCOW — A Soviet passenger plane crashed on takeoff from Leningrad Airport New Year's Eve, killing more than 93 persons, Western airline sources reported Friday. They said the plane, a four-engine Ilyushin 18, was carrying 90 passengers, 2 pilots, a navigator and an undisclosed number of stewardesses. It was reported to have had total engine failure as it took off for the Armenian capital of Yerevan. All aboard the craft were killed, the sources added. The Soviet public has not been informed of any crash.

VIETNAMIZATION

SAIGON — U. S. commanders turned over the Long Binh naval base to South Vietnamese control Friday in the latest move to reduce the scope of American military involvement in Indochina. Long Binh, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, is the sixth of 34 U.S. Navy bases in Vietnam scheduled to be given to the South Vietnamese navy. All will come under Vietnamese command by the end of next year, a U.S. spokesman said.

Brazil to Free 70 for Bucher

RIO DE JANEIRO — The Brazilian government agreed Friday night to release 70 prisoners and fly them to exile in exchange for kidnapped Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher. A note signed by the minister of justice said a list of prisoners to be released was received and the government "considers it complete, consequently it is taking the necessary steps for the embarkation of the terrorists."

General Confession Sought

VATICAN CITY — A proposal to do away with private confession by Roman Catholics except in cases of "grave" sin has been sent by Pope Paul VI to the church's bishops for study, Vatican sources said Friday. The recommendation, contained in a document on confession prepared by the Vatican Department for the Discipline of Sacraments, would allow Roman Catholic congregations to confess their sins jointly in a prayer of general confession, the sources said. The priest then would give joint absolution to all who had confessed, allowing them to receive Holy Communion. Catholics believe absolution is the wiping out of their past sins.

Blast Levels 3 Row Houses, Kills 4

BALTIMORE — Four persons, including two children, were killed Friday when an explosion leveled three row houses in the eastern part of the city. The charred bodies of Annette Barber, 7, and her brother, Thomas, 4, were pulled from the icy ruins of their home about three hours after the blast which fire officials said apparently was caused by a gas leak.

Ethel Gerge, 60, died at City Hospital of multiple injuries suffered when the explosion destroyed her home. A charred body removed from the debris was thought to be her husband, James George, 65. Mrs. Gertrude Meagher, about 50, grandmother of the dead children was listed in good condition in a hospital, while the children's sister, Barbara Barger, 2, was treated and released. Sieberling

Sieberling Recalls Tires

WASHINGTON — The Sieberling Tire Co. has agreed to pay a $4,000 fine and recall 21,000 defective tires, the Transportation Department said Friday. The National Highway Safety Bureau said the Akron, Ohio, firm agreed to the civil penalty. But James Cumming, president of Sieberling, said that the defective tires have not been produced "for approximately 2½ years, and that by now most probably have performed a normal service life."

Arabs Issue Warning at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS — Egypt and Jordan have made soundings on the possibility of a Security Council meeting on the Middle East in case U.S. peace envoy Gunnar Jarring comes back from Jerusalem "with empty hands," diplomatic sources said Friday. The Arab initiative was conditioned on what Jarring will tell Egyptian negotiator Mohammed Hassan El-Zayyat and his Jordanian counterpart Muhammad H. El-Farra when he continues the Middle East peace talks at U.N. headquarters Monday after his return from Jerusalem, the sources said.

Jobless Rate at Nine-Year High

WASHINGTON — Unemployment hit a nine-year high of 6 per cent of the American work force in December despite the end of the General Motors strike that the administration blamed for many recent economic troubles. The Labor Department's report Friday that the jobless rate went up from 5.8 to 6 per cent from November to December meant that 4.6 million Americans seeking jobs could not find them. That was an increase of 2 million from a year earlier.

Biggest Deficit Since WWII

WASHINGTON — The federal government will spend at least $15.6 billion more than it takes in during the current fiscal year, creating the second biggest deficit since World War II, a congressional committee said Friday. The Joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditure, in a 31-page report, said the deficit for the fiscal year which ends June 30 will be six times larger than the $2.85 billion deficit run up under the first budget prepared by the Nixon Administration.

Ice, Snow Sweep Across Dixie

CHICAGO — A winter storm spread a treacherous coating of ice and snow across the South Friday. Mississippi state offices closed for the day. Many schools closed, basketball games were called off and many shops and stores closed in Mississippi as motorists, few of whom have snow tires or chains, battled a one-to-two-inch sheath of ice in Jackson and up to four inches at Greenwood. Snow or freezing rain spread eastward to the Carolinas and Virginia. Travelers' warnings were up from Louisiana to Virginia.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Just a Free Speech Exercise for Wayne

Combined News Services

Dist. Atty. John Price Friday refused to prosecute actor John Wayne who engaged in an obscenity-spotted shouting match with demonstrators at the inaugural entertainment gala for Gov. Reagan in Sacramento. Price said Wayne was "exercising free speech" when he shouted back at the demonstrators.

A disturbing the peace complaint was filed with the police department after the Monday night gala at the Sacramento auditorium by Gregory Kirkwood, 22, Sacramento. The shouting match erupted as Wayne was leaving a rear entrance of the auditorium.

Price said the demonstrator called Wayne "A m— f—." They were carrying Viet Cong flags, he added. When the actor saw the flags, according to the prosecutor, Wayne said, "what the f— is that?"

A witness said the actor started walking toward a man carrying a VC flag but was restrained by a companion. "You haven't even been there and don't know what it's all about," one witness quoted Wayne as saying.

The district attorney said "the matter is closed. Wayne won't get an Oscar for his performance but he was exercising free speech."

Besides, Price told UPI. "I have more to worry about than the sensitivities of Viet Cong sympathizers."

STIFF SENTENCE

A university professor sentenced Friday to four months in jail for destroying a portrait of President Nixon called the ruling "unfair, unjust and extremely severe." The charge stemmed from his part in an antiwar demonstration at the Edwardsville, Ill., draft board last May.

POPE'S BROTHER

Dr. Francesco Montini, younger brother of Pope Paul VI, collapsed and died at his Brescia, Italy home Friday night. He was 70. The physician was one of three sons of Giorgio Montini, a wealthy landowner and one-time editor of a local newspaper. The cause of death was not immediately determined.

SUSAN EISENHOWER MARRIES BARRISTER

Susan Elaine Eisenhower, granddaughter of the late President Eisenhower and daughter of the U.S. Ambassador to Belgium, was married Friday to British barrister Alexander Hugh Bradshaw. Miss Eisenhower, 19, was given in marriage by her father, Ambassador John Eisenhower. Her 15-year-old sister, Mary Jean, was her only attendant. Her brother, David, was the groom's best man.

The nuptial mass was performed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Alphonse Marcineavage in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, which was used as a hospital during the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863. Mamie Eisenhower, widow of the president, witnessed the 50-minute ceremony, as did Mr. and Mrs. F. John Bradshaw, parents of the groom. Also attending was Julie Eisenhower, daughter of the President.

QUADS 'FINE'

Quadruplet girls were born Friday to a truck driver's wife in St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome, Idaho. The mother, Mrs. William Springer, 22, Twin Falls, Idaho, and the girls were "doing fine" despite a breach birth, said the attending physician. Both parents have a history of multiple births in the families. The mother, Joy, is a twin herself. The Springers have one other child, a daughter, Karen, 2.

REGENT BIRD

Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson, wife of former President Johnson, Friday was named to the University of Texas system Board of Regents effective immediately. Mrs. Johnson, long closely associated with the university at Austin, was given a six-year term ending Jan. 10, 1977. She holds two degrees from the university, and both her daughters attended the Austin campus.

ACTOR DIES

Veteran Actor Richard Kollmar, who played crime fighter "Boston Blackie" on radio and later hosted a popular morning talk show, died in his sleep Friday at his Manhattan home. He was 59. Kollmar married columnist Dorothy Kilgallen in 1940. In 1965 Miss Kilgallen died and two years later Kollmar married fashion designer Anne Fogarty.

'RIDICULOUS'

British socialite Lady Jacqueline Rufus-Isaacs, 24, denounced as "absolutely ridiculous" Friday the report of a romance between herself and Lord Snowden, husband of Princess Margaret. "I am very upset by all these unfounded rumors," she told UPI at a vacation chalet where she is staying in Gstaad, a tiny Swiss ski resort. "It is all absolutely ridiculous," she said, "and to say that I visited Lord Snowden when he was in hospital more often than Princess Margaret is nothing else but malicious."

WHIRLY-GIRL

Joann Osterud, 25, chief flight instructor for Bell Air Service, Seattle, was named Friday as winner of the $500 annual Doris Mullen scholarship of The Whirly-Girls, international association of women helicopter pilots.

LISTON RITES

Funeral services will be conducted today for former heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston with a Catholic priest, the Rev. Edward Murphy of Denver, conducting the service. Two protestant ministers, Rev. Marion Bennett and Rev. V. C. L. Coleman will eulogize Liston at services to be held at the Palm Chapel. The Ink Spots vocal group will sing at the services.

President's Daughter Flashes Sapphire

IS SHE OR ISN'T SHE?

TRICIA WON'T TALK

TRICIA NIXON tried to hide the sapphire diamond ring she was wearing on her left hand third finger Friday.

She also shrugged off questions on her rumored engagement to Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox.

Tricia accompanied the President on a tour of Catalina Friday after a short helicopter flight from their San Clemente home. "Are you engaged?" a newswoman asked Tricia when she stood on a street in the town of Avalon and watched her father sign autographs and shake hands.

"Are you?" she quipped and then got lost in the crowd. Secret Service men then went out after her.

Since the rumors began during the Christmas holidays that she and Cox, both 24, were engaged, Tricia has avoided the public eye. She is currently vacationing with her parents in California while Cox studies for his examinations at Harvard where he is in his second year.

State Coast Was Dumpsite

By GIL BAILEY
Contributing Editor

Radioactive wastes were dumped into waters just off the Southern California coast into U.S. Navy-designated dumps between 1946 and 1960, the Independent, Press-Telegram has learned.

The Atomic Energy Commission, following complaints from the State Department of Fish and Game, moved the dumps several hundred miles out into the Pacific in an area which borders the extension seaward of the Mexican border.

Only one firm, California Salvage, is currently licensed to dump into the Pacific, an AEC spokesman in Berkeley told the I, P-T Friday.

Most dumping of radioactive wastes is now taking place in Nevada and other inland sites, for economic reasons, the spokesman said.

However, he confirmed that the AEC used the Navy-designated sites shortly after the commission formed.

He said AEC records show that the sites were designated for "chemicals" and were administered by the Coast Guard.

The site used for "considerable dumping" was between Santa Cruz and San Nicolas islands. Only low level wastes were dumped in the area, the spokesman said.

At least 133 curies of radiation (a measure of radiation) were dumped into the area, the same area the Navy designated a "chemical dumping ground."

The AEC conducted tests of its dumping procedures and took photographs of the bottom. The tests showed the procedure was safe, the spokesman said.

However, because of California's objections, the dumping site was moved.

three dumping sites off the Southern California coast shortly after World War II. These are marked on mariners' charts and are used by a variety of firms and maritime operators for dumping.

That dump site was used to dispose of 3,467 drums containing radioactive wastes in 1960 and 944 drums in 1961.

Small dumps were made in the Pacific as late as 1969, most of them off San Francisco Bay the spokesman said.

In addition the Navy disposed of some radioactive wastes in the Pacific, the spokesman added.

DEAD BOYS' PARENTS FILE $1-MILLION SUIT

The parents of two boys killed in the August collapse of a beach cave in the bluff between Cherry and Junipero avenues filed suit for $1 million against the city of Long Beach Friday.

Agnes Jean O'Brien and her husband, Navy Shipfitter Chief Robert Percy O'Brien claim the deaths of 7-year-olds Robert Jr. and step-brother Danny Maciejewski, both of 20528 Harvest Ave., Lakewood, were due to city "negligence, wanton and willful misconduct."

The suit filed by attorney Thomas J. Pierry asks $500,000 for the death of each child.

It states that a claim previously was filed with the city, but denied.

Also listed as defendants are 12 John Does, to be named as identities become known in court proceedings.

Pierry alleges that the city and other defendants "failed to properly maintain, police, control, construct, test, service and repair the premises set out as a hill site, excavation, cave tunnel location" where the boys were buried under 15 feet of sand and rock when it collapsed as they were exploring.

Mrs. O'Brien, who accompanied the boys to the beach, said at the time of the tragedy that she did not know they had gone into the cave.

Suspect in Ohta Death Cuts Wrist

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — John Linley Frazier, accused of the mass murder of Dr. Victor M. Ohta and four others, apparently attempted suicide Friday in his jail cell.

The 24-year-old former auto mechanic, arrested last October four days after the slayings, cut his left arm above the wrist with a razor blade, according to Santa Cruz Sheriff's detective Lt. Marvin Gangloff.

Gangloff said Frazier was treated at a hospital. He was back in his cell 40 minutes later.

Gangloff said an "unknown person in the felony tank pushed an emergency button and guards who responded found Frazier with the cut on his wrist."

Frazier apparently cut himself with a blade obtained by breaking open a locked safety razor which is furnished prisoners. The cut was described as "small."

FRAZIER was indicted in the shooting deaths of Ohta, 47, his wife, Virginia, 41, their sons, Victor Taggart, 11, and Richard Derrick, 12, and the physician's secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Their bound bodies were found in the family swimming pool at Ohta's hilltop mansion which was set ablaze after the killings.

A note was found near the mansion that declared "World War III" against those who "misuse the environment."

Frazier was captured Oct. 23 at his mountain cabin within sight of the Ohta home.

Manson Attorney Ends Long Tate-Trial Summation

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Charles Manson's attorney Irving Kanarek ended his marathon summation in the Tate-La Bianca murder trial Friday, claiming the charges against his client were "a figment of a particular prosecutor's imagination."

The burly Van Nuys attorney, in his eighth day of final arguments, claimed the prosecution had built the case against the cult chieftain on "insinuations... assumptions... possibilities."

We're supposed to be in this courtroom on matters that do not involve myths," Kanarek told the five-woman, seven-man jury. "This (the charges) is a figment of a particular prosecutor's imagination... a preconceived notion... thought about as a way to get Charles Manson. This is beyond belief."

"Mr. Manson is a human being with the same body temperature as everyone else... he has a normal this and a normal that. They've tried to substitute some kind of fantasy instead of proof... turned him into some kind of deity... mystic..."

Then turning to the conspiracy charge against Manson, Kanarek told the jurors there was no showing of any criminal intent and no showing of conspiracy, and asked them to "analyze the evidence and try to find criminal intent."

Kanarek said the case "boils down to an unbelievable confrontation" between Manson's ideas and those of the establishment.

"The criminal court is no place to carry on this type of confrontation. All of us in this courtroom have the power to end that confrontation by doing what the evidence in this case shows — that is to find Mr. Manson not guilty of all charges."

The greying, controversial lawyer ended his argument, just as he began it Dec. 29, by charging that Manson is not on trial for seven murders but is on trial because he is a symbol of what is wrong with American society.

The jury, which had been restless and inattentive during most of Kanarek's argument, broke into smiles when he said he was through.

Defense attorney Maxwell Keith, substituting for the missing Ronald Hughes, will make the final defense argument beginning Monday. The half-pay summation, will be preceded by arguments for a mistrial filed by all defense attorneys, claiming the defendants — Manson, Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten — have not received a fair trial since spectators have been excluded in preference to members of the news media.

Final prosecution arguments, expected to last three days, will begin Monday afternoon, with the jury starting deliberations possibly by the end of the week.

Police Seek Gunmen, Fear Vice 'Warfare'

Detectives late Friday were searching for bandits who took $31,000 in jewelry and valuable files from a 65-year-old Bixby Knolls woman who police identified as the "madam" in a local prostitution racket operating out of two electrical appliance stores.

A male relative of the woman engaged in a shoot-out with two gunmen in a swamp in Rolling Hills Estates, police said, when he tried to retrieve the stolen items Thursday night.

The file included names of customers of the prostitution business, officers said.

THE HOLDUP and subsequent shooting may be the latest round in a mob war over control of prostitution in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, detectives said.

Victims of the Wednesday morning stick-up at 3937 Elm Ave. were Peggy Harris and her 21-year-old nephew, Robert Terry Harris.

Items taken included the prostitution files, known as "trick cards," and a $10,000 wedding band, a $10,000 watch, other jewelry, a car belonging to young Harris and a 30-30 rifle.

Underworld sources told police investigators that most of the loot — including the "trick cards" — were being held for ransom, according to Detective Sgt. Jack W. McMahon, head of the robbery detail.

Police recovered the auto Thursday at 2 a.m. in a parking lot at Orange Avenue and 52nd St. The rifle was inside.

SGT. McMAHAN said Mrs. Harris and her nephew had not cooperated with police in the robbery investigation, so officers had been assigned to stake out the Elm Avenue house and trail anyone entering or leaving.

Detective Sgts. Y. D. Carter and Donald E. Murray followed a relative of the woman, a man identified as Jim Harris, when he left the house Thursday afternoon.

Harris led them to an exclusive housing development in Rolling Hills Estates, they said. He stopped his car near 38 Aurora Drive at the end of a narrow road that led to a fence separating the development from a ravine and a swamp.

The Long Beach detectives and Lenoxx sheriff's deputies later pieced together this account of what happened:

Shortly before 8 p.m., Harris apparently met two men — possibly the robbers — who accused him of allowing the police to follow him to the meeting place. Harris drew a pistol and fired five shots at the men, who shot back at him while fleeing. The pair ran through the swamp to Vermont Avenue and escaped in a car they had parked there, police said.

Apparently neither Harris nor either of the men was wounded in the shoot-out.

MRS. HARRIS was identified as a "madam" by Capt. Winton A. Haynes, commander of the Long Beach police vice squad. He said she operates her prostitution business from buildings at 5466 Long Beach Blvd. and 6803 Cherry Ave.

Pittsburg Oil Spill Controlled

PITTSBURGH (AP) The Coast Guard pushed clean-up operations Friday at the scene of a fuel oil spill that spread a 12-mile-long slick in New York Slough, near the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

Using booms, quantities of hay, skimmer boats and pumping trucks, the Coast Guard reported the spread had been stopped.

An estimated 12,000 gallons of oil escaped through an inadvertently opened valve late Wednesday night during ballasting operations aboard the Norwegian iron ore carrier Hoegh Belmar, tied up at Pittsburg, about 30 miles northeast of San Francisco.

THE OIL spill brought the first full-scale effort of the Multi-Agency Pollution Response Team, with Coast Guard Cmdr. Gordon Dickman in charge at the scene.

Cooperating agencies included the Sixth Army, Army Corps of Engineers, Air Force, Federal Water Quality Administration, U.S. Public Health Service, Office of Emergency Preparedness and California Conservation Department.

The State Department of Fish and Game had monitors on the spot who reported so far no evidence of injury to fish or wildlife.

Lakewood Hope Chapter Due to Install Officers

Headed by incoming president Irving Mandel, new officers will be installed by the Lakewood Chapter of the City of Hope at a meeting at Rochelle's Restaurant, 3333 Lakewood Blvd., Long Beach, Jan. 17, at 5 p.m.

Nathan Shlachter is the chapter's outgoing president.

LA Council ACLU Vie on Districts

Arguments were presented Friday before the California Supreme Court on the reapportionment of Los Angeles City Council districts, a move with far-reaching effects on future local elections.

The city and the American Civil Liberties Union debated whether the Los Angeles Council districts can be legally based on voter registration figures or by population.

The seven-man court took under submission Friday the case which focuses squarely on the "one man, one vote" principle espoused by the U.S. Supreme Court in its 1968 landmark decision.

Attorney Lawrence W. Steinberg of the ACLU said the city's present method of drawing council districts discriminates against large areas of minority races whose registration of voters is small.

A RACE TO SAVE A CHILD

Rescue workers dig frantically to save tiny Alycia Hernandez, trapped in a narrow storm drain construction site Friday in Long Beach. Firemen pump oxygen down the hole in which the girl is trapped, right, while workmen at left dig another hole to reach Alycia. The girl's father, Jose Hernandez, watches at center.

tar she calmed down enough to report that she was cold.

As the final tunnel neared its end, someone lowered a microphone into the shaft. Those near enough heard her father shout:

"They're digging right now. They're going to pull you out. Okay? Maybe just a couple more feet, you hear?"

HER ANSWERING, sobs sounded like pigeons cooing.

The scratching noises of the diggers grew louder until a voice declared, "We've punched in. We can see her head! We're freeing her head. Her shoulders are free now. We're bringing her out. A leg is caught. It's OK now, she's free."

Then finally:

"We've got her out." A thousand-voice roar of approval rose at 5:57 p.m. from the waiting crowd which included all four of Alycia's grandparents, an uncle, her mother's nine sisters and an audience of millions watching the tense drama via live telecasts.

Conscious throughout the long ordeal, Alycia's shock-widened brown eyes stared up at the six burly sheriff's deputies who carried her to a waiting ambulance which rushed her to Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance.

She was X-rayed and reported to be "in just fine condition" but was transferred to Kaiser Founda-week at an excavation site in Chinatown apparently has been solved.

Detectives said Friday the site had been occupied by the Los Angeles Clinic Association in 1904 and was taken over by the University of California in 1909. It had been operated as a free clinic until 1944.

Detectives said the bones had been in the ground between 30 and 50 years and that no evidence of foul play had been discovered.

Asked if the family had any special plans for the occasion, Jose Hernandez answered in a choked voice: "I just hope we'll be able to have something." They will.

And the spirit of Kathy Fiscus will smile her blessings. Next year that smile will be even bigger when Alycia celebrates a momentous occasion Kathy never lived to see — a fourth birthday party.

Navy to Lay Off 150 at Concord

CONCORD — The Navy said Friday it was laying off 145 of about 350 civilian employees at the Concord Naval Weapons Station.

A spokesman said that because of troop reductions in Vietnam there "is not so much ammunition to load" for the Far East.

There had been 2,700 employees before a series of cuts began in August, 1969.

NO WELFARE CUT

aid-to-dependent children program.

THE STATE also violated federal standards because it allowed counties to decide the way in which certain social services were administered and because it failed to allow a recipient family to determine which members of the family were eligible for aid.

The motivation of the federal law was to provide periodic cost-of-living increases in the aid-to-dependent children program, where payments have remained static in California since 1957.

But the way HEW has interpreted the law, only "paper increases" must be made by the state. In other words, California can legally increase the amount it says it is paying and continue payments at the present level — as long as they are made uniformly.

This is exactly what Reagan attempted to do. At this point, on Dec. 3, Twinn said he had been prepared to declare California in conformity.

A lawsuit brought by a welfare rights group in San Francisco prevented the governor from carrying out his plan. Soon afterwards, a taxpayer's action was filed in Los Angeles which is designed to prevent the state from making even the paper increases.

REAGAN'S appeal to the state Supreme Court urged that body to take jurisdiction over both cases and issue a single decision informing the state of what it could do to comply with federal law.

"If the court rules against the state of California we would have no choice but to rule the state out of conformity," Twinn warned.

Twinn had already sent the governor an eight-page decision declaring California out of conformity and cutting off all funds by April 1 when the White House intervened.

Reagan said he called Agnew himself and Agnew, according to White House sources, was urged to work out a face-saving compromise with Richardson and the governor. However, Richardson reportedly warned Reagan that HEW would have no choice except to interrupt the funds if the court prevented California from complying with the law.

Twinn appeared annoyed by questions about the White House role and the benefit that any fund cutoff would have for California welfare recipients.

the best baseball fields in Southern California? B.P., Long Beach.

A Veteran's Stadium is used by local high schools, Cal State Long Beach and Long Beach City College several days each week and nearly every weekend, and the Los Angeles Rams need a field on which to practice five days a week, ACTION LINE learned from Bob Van Antwerp of the Long Beach Recreation Department. "The Rams requested use of Blair Field about five years ago and worked out a rental contract with the city of Long Beach. Under the agreement, the Rams pay rent from Sept. 1 through their last season game and also assume financial responsibility for a portion of the upkeep and repairs on the field. Actually, they only use the outfield for their practice sessions and we have had no complaints from local baseball organizations." Van Antwerp added that revenue from the rental agreement greatly assists in the maintenance of the city's baseball facility. Also, each summer the Rams sponsor a free football clinic at Blair Field for Long Beach children and adults.

Child Care

Q. I am on welfare and I would like to go to college. I must find someone to care for my children while I am at school. Is there any place that provides child care for low-income families in my situation? C.Y., Cypress.

A. A vocational counselor from the Orange County Department of Welfare said that you should contact the department and request a service worker. If your case is approved and your goals are feasible for future employment, they can provide you with additional assistance to help you with education and child care expenses. Additional financial assistance for transportation, mileage or car payments may also be provided depending on your case.

Deposit, No Return

Q. We made a deal with a salesman at the Mobile Home Fair in Corona to buy a 12 by 52 foot expando mobile home. The salesman had the manager write up the deal and he wrote up a 12 by 52 foot coach that was on the lot and not the type we wanted which would have to be ordered from the factory. We gave them $120 cash and a check for $880. That night we noticed that they did not have the expando model written on the contract. The manager would not honor the salesman's agreement and would not return our $120. We were able to stop payment on the check but we are retired and can't afford to lose $120 like this. Could you investigate this and see if they will return our money? J.V.B., Bellflower.

A. They will not refund your $120. Warren Kaye, the owner, denied that his salesman had agreed to sell you an expando at the price of the lot model. He said also the contract was read to you before you signed it and it was "crystal clear" that you bought the model on the lot. Kaye said you have three options: you can take the coach listed on the contract, you can forfeit your deposit, or you can re-negotiate for an expando at a higher price. "Frankly, I believe they have selected a coach elsewhere," said Kaye.

Right Track

Q. I have a four-track solid state tape recorder and I would like to find out if there are recording booth facilities available to the public where I can make reel to reel recordings. P.O., Lynwood.

A. We were unable to find recording booths for tape to tape recordings that are open to the public. But the Stereo Cartape Co., 6734 W. Sunset Blvd. in Los Angeles will do it for you. The charge is $5.59 for each 36 to 40-minute tape. The price includes the tape. For further information call Sol Gordon at 462-8888. Members of the Discotape tape club at 1594 Long Beach Blvd. may use the club's recorders and turntables. Membership is $10 per year. You can call Pam Gregory at 599-7310 for club information. Several persons we checked with suggested that you can try borrowing a recorder comparable to your own and patch it across to your machine and then record your tapes from reel to reel.

adoption of the city charter in 1921," O'Neil said.

O'Neil said "approximately 11 per cent" of the city's 4,435-man work force is made up of black workers, which he said is an accurate reflection of the black population in Long Beach estimated to be about 5 per cent.

David R. Barclay, a supervising consultant in the State Dept. of Industrial Relations' Fair Employment Practices Division, who presented the NAACP's case to the commission, told the seven-member panel the city's numerical breakdown of the work force "is a classic example of how statistics don't tell the whole story."

"The majority of the city's 520 black employees, according to its own records, are primarily garbage collectors," Barclay said.

"The exact number of departments in which there are no black workers at all is overwhelming," Barclay told the commission.

In its letter, the NAACP, quoting figures from the I, P-T study, said almost half of the blacks employed by the city are working in one department — public service (236). The majority of these workers, the letter said, are in refuse collection (Employment figures in the I, P-T study were taken from a chart prepared by the city's Personnel and Employee Relations Dept. and presented on request to the Human Relations Commission last March. It shows a breakdown of city departments by race.)

O'Neil said the large concentration of blacks in the public service division "is a fact that would not indicate discrimination but would indicate the educational level of the (black) people we have been hiring. "We have to hire off the civil service eligibility list," he said.

"The Central Area Neighborhood Council is supporting the NAACP request for the investigation."

"The NAACP said its own investigation of city employment "showed there are eleven departments in city government with a combined total of 229 employees and no blacks or Mexican-Americans among them; there are five other departments with a combined total of 596 employees with only one black worker in each department. This includes the fire department with its 466 employees," the NAACP said.

Last May, Fire Chief Tullio Rizzo and two Civil Service Department representatives appeared before the Human Relations Commission to explain why the department has only been able to hire one black fireman.

At that time, the commission urged both civil service and the fire department to seek "affirmative-action program" to recruit minority applicants.

Under the Fair Employment Practice Act, investigators will have the power to subpoena any city files it needs. However, O'Neil said "the city is prepared to cooperate fully."

NAACP president Jim

Swan, who attended the FEPC meeting, said afterwards, he was "pleased with the commission's decision."

Members of the FEPC are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Other members of the commission, all Reagan appointees are: C. L. Delums, of Oakland, international president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, a civil rights group; Mark Guerra, superintendent of special education program for the Campbell Union High School District; Catherine L. Montgomery, a vice president of the San Diego Planning Commission; Stella C. Sandoval, an Anaheim housewife and J. M. Stueben, the mayor of Beverly Hills.

New Era Heralded by MIRV's

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States opened a new strategic weapons era Friday when the Air Force declared war-ready the first missile capable of hurling nuclear warheads at several widely separated targets with one shot. It accepted as operational 50 new Minuteman III Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles equipped with Multiple, Independently Targetable Re-entry Vehicle or MIRV warheads at ceremonies at Minot Air Force Base, N.D.

THE FIRST of 500 Minutemen IIIs that eventually will get MIRV warheads belong to the Strategic Air Command's 71st Strategic Missile Squadron. They are buried underground over about seven miles and linked to five electronic control centers which would fire them in a war.

Deployment of the first MIRV-equipped missiles began in June. That, along with Navy plans to begin putting MIRV Missiles aboard nuclear submarines within the next two or three months, prompted some sharp criticism.

Critics said the deployment of MIRVs could jeopardize the U.S.-Russian strategic arms limitation talks. They argued that the way to encourage agreement at the talks, which resume in March in Vienna, was to limit deployment of new weapons, not escalate it.

THE Russians have never tested a MIRV weapon. Up to now, the most sophisticated strategic weapon in each nation's arsenal was a missile that could hurl several warheads in cluster or shotgun fashion.

But the MIRV can send several targets many miles apart with the launch of just one missile.

The Minuteman III has a range of more than 5,000 miles and is being equipped with three independent warheads equal in power to about 200,000 tons of TNT each. This compares to a total force of more than a million tons for the older, single-warhead missiles.

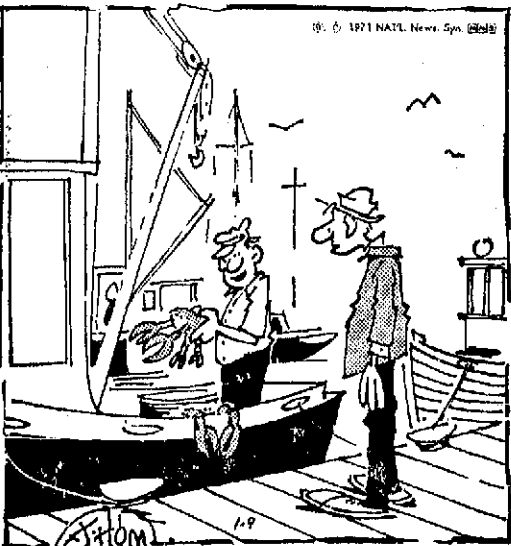

But the reduction in total power is considered far less significant than the multiplication of warheads — especially since each Minuteman III is 10-times more powerful than the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima.

AS FOR the Navy, it plans to place aboard subs Poseidon missiles carrying 10 independent warheads each. Even then, each separate warhead will be equal to about 50,000 tons of TNT, or more than twice as powerful as the Hiroshima bomb.

Two nuclear subs, the James Madison and the Daniel Boone, have been converted so far to carry the larger Poseidon MIRV missiles. Thirty-one of the Navy's 41 Polaris-firing subs are scheduled eventually to get the Poseidon with its 10 MIRV warheads.

Navy Orders New Class Atomic Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy awarded multimillion dollar contracts to two firms Friday for construction of a new class of high-speed, nuclear-powered attack submarines.

The new subs, known as the 688 Class, will be designed to duel with the swiftest Soviet submarines and also to destroy surface ships.

Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., of Newport News, Va., was awarded two contracts totaling $332.5 million to build the lead ship and four other submarines.

General Dynamics Corp.'s Electric Boat Division, Groton, Conn., was awarded a $428-million contract to build seven subs.

In awarding the contracts, Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee said the first 12 subs "represent first increment of a new submarine program which, it is anticipated, will be augmented by additional ships of the same design in subsequent years."

The submarines will be fitted with the newest navigation and detection equipment and be capable of firing the new Mark 48 torpedo.

There was no indication of how many of the new subs will eventually be built, but there have been reports of between 17 to 25.

The Navy's top admirals have been pushing for a go-ahead for construction of a new class of swift attack submarines to counter the Soviets' growing sub-building program.

At this point, the cost of each sub is estimated at about $160 million.

This includes about $90 million for each nuclear reactor and other equipment. In the current fiscal year, Congress has approved funds for construction of seven subs and procurement of materials for five others.

The contract announced Friday covers only the basic hulls.

The Newport News firm, a subsidiary of Tenneco Corp., performed the preliminary design work on the 688 Class.

Joining Newport News and General Dynamics in bidding for the lucrative contract was Litton Industries Inc.

General Dynamics said the contract will enable them to keep together its submarine design team which has built more than a third of the Navy's submarine fleet.

Because of the need for advance planning and procurement of long lead time components, General Dynamics said, the contract will not have any immediate effect on employment levels at the firm's Electric Boat Division.

However, Sen.-elect Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., hailed the contract as being a tremendous boost to "stabilize the economy of Connecticut and the Northeast."

Russ Ships Viet Helicopter Loss Steady Despite Pullout

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Russian naval vessels, including a submarine mothership which aroused U.S. alarm last fall, have left Cuba and are heading in the direction of home, the Pentagon said Friday.

Officials said privately they believe the ships are returning to Soviet ports.

But they avoided any public forecast of the ships' destination, because they remember the administration's embarrassment after it reported indications the Soviet were building a permanent submarine base at the Cuban port of Cienfuegos.

The sub tender later came and went from Cienfuegos and the Russians denied any intentions to establish a sub base in Cuba. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has acknowledged there is no evidence the mothership has serviced any nuclear powered Soviet submarine inside or outside that harbor.

PENTAGON spokesman Jerry W. Fridheim limited himself to reporting that the tender and a Foxrot class diesel powered submarine were in the mid-Atlantic Thursday, northeast of Bermuda, and moving in a northeasterly direction.

Such a heading, if continued, would take the two craft to Russia.

Meanwhile, Fridheim said two other Soviet ships, a guided missile frigate and an oiler, were in the English Channel Thursday, bound northward, after visiting Cuba.

All four Russian vessels left Cuba earlier this week, Fridheim said.

The Pentagon spokesman did not say why Washington had not previously reported the departure of the Russian ships from Cuba. But it seemed likely the Pentagon wanted to be sure they were far into the Atlantic and moving steadily away before giving out the word.

For months, the Russian ships have been "harbor hopping," as Laird put it, that is sailing in and out of different Cuban ports and mystifying U.S. officials as to their intentions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is continuing to lose almost as many helicopters in Indochina — about three a day — as it did in previous years despite a lower level of fighting and American troop withdrawals, Pentagon statistics showed Friday.

Pentagon officials, by figuring the average cost of a new helicopter at $230,000, put the loss for just the past three years at about $700 million, enough to field a full army division for a year and a half.

During the first 11 months of 1970—the December figures are not yet available — the U.S. command in Saigon reported the loss of 823 choppers. Of these, 385 were shot down over South Vietnam and 13 in Laos. Included among the remaining 430 lost to operational or nonhostile causes were a small but unspecified number shot down over Cambodia.

In 1968, which marked some of the bitterest fighting and with U.S. forces in Vietnam at their highest levels during the 10 years of American involvement, about 1,000 helicopters were knocked out of action. The losses were almost evenly divided between those downed by enemy fire and those lost to operational causes. Another thousand were lost in 1969.

Operational losses are those attributed to such things as mechanical malfunctions, midair collisions or fuel loss.

Pentagon spokesmen said that even though the war has been winding down, the United States still has been flying almost the same number of helicopter sorties over the past three years.

Last year more than seven million sorties — one flight by one helicopter — were flown, compared to about 8.4 million in 1969 and 7.4 million in 1968.

"That's a lot of flying when you're talking about seven or eight million sorties," the spokesman said. "When you're flying in all kinds of weather, night and day, around the clock, you're bound to have losses."

Aircraft crashes due to operational causes, including both helicopters and fixed wing planes, have killed 2,344 Americans since the beginning of the war in 1961 and account for the biggest share of the 9,069 U.S. fighting men who have died in the war zone from nonhostile causes, which include illness and all types of accidents.

The new years is expected to bring a decline in the number of U.S. helicopter losses now that the South Vietnamese are taking over a greater share of the missions. The need for American chopper pilots has so diminished that on April 1 the Army plans to discharge about one-fourth of its 25,000 helicopter pilots.

BERET FREED ON MURDER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army dismissed a murder charge Friday against a Green Beret captain whose court-martial conviction in the 1967 slaying of a Cambodian agent in South Vietnam was thrown out by an appeals court last October.

The new action, in effect, closed the books in the case of Capt. John J. McCarthy Jr., 27, of Phoenix, Ariz., who was convicted three years ago of fatally shooting Linchin Hai Lam, a Cambodian said to have been used by the special forces in undercover operations in Vietnam.

The Army Court of Military Review last Oct. 29 set aside McCarthy's conviction basically because a key prosecution witness recanted his testimony after the court-martial.

The appeals court ruled that the Army could try McCarthy again if it chose.

However, Maj. Gen. W. B. Latta decided a new trial was not warranted and he dismissed the premeditated murder charge.

The Army statement did not say on what basis Latta made his decision after reviewing what was called the "totality of facts, evidence and circumstances."

Latta is commanding general at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., where McCarthy is stationed.

After his conviction in January 1968, McCarthy was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The sentence was reduced to 24 years and McCarthy then was transferred to the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks at Ft. Leavenworth.

In setting aside the court-martial conviction last October, the Army review court cited a post-trial change of testimony by an Army pathologist concerning the nature of the victim's wound and the weapon he believed was used.

At Ft. Huachuca, McCarthy said, "Now that it's all over, I intend to continue my Army career."

Confession in My Lai Court-Martial Case

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — Defense attorneys for Sgt. Charles E. Hutto permitted the soldier's confession of a massacre at My Lai to go unchallenged Friday, but likened him to the man who, under orders, dropped the atom bomb on Hiroshima.

The military judge hearing Hutto's court-martial, Col. Kenneth A. Howard, said the court may have to reach back to post-World War II Nuremberg war crimes trials for a precedent in deciding the case.

HUTTO, 22, of Tallulah, La., is charged only with "intent" to commit murder or assault during an American infantry sweep through the Vietnamese village of My Lai March 16, 1968, but in a signed confession read to the court Friday he openly admitted that he and other American GIs committed wholesale murder.

On the day of the My Lai operation, Hutto said in the statement, "the order came from the company (commander Capt. Ernest L. Medina) to kill the animals, destroy all the food and kill all the people."

"I saw people trying to hide. Some were running. Some were standing. We opened up. It was murder."

Billy H. Thompson, an Army intelligence officer who appeared as the prosecution's final witness, said Hutto gave him the signed statement Nov. 16, 1968.

Thompson's brief appearance on the stand was simply for the purpose of establishing that he had taken the statement. The statement itself, however, was by far the most damaging piece of evidence the Army presented against Hutto.

DURING THE 3½-hour presentation of their case, Army prosecutors had produced only three other witnesses. One said he had not seen Hutto during the My Lai sweep, another was not asked whether he saw Hutto, and the third said he had seen the defendant, but was unable to say definitely that Hutto had killed anyone.

Edward Magill, Hutto's civilian defense attorney made clear his case would hinge on the contention that Hutto was merely following orders at My Lai, and that his client, with just an eighth grade education, was not equipped to determine whether those orders were legal or otherwise.

SENATORS PLAN CRIME HEARINGS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators are planning their first intensive probe in seven years into the empires of organized crime, "including but not limited to members of the cosa nostra."

In a brief statement Friday, the Senate investigations subcommittee said its survey would begin this spring with hearings into syndicate traffic in stolen, negotiable securities amounting to "many millions of dollars" yearly.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said later hearings "are expected to disclose in detail how organized criminals, including but not limited to members of cosa nostra, operate in gambling, labor racketeering, credit card theft and fraud, the pornography traffic, smuggling and distribution of narcotics, and a number of other criminal fields."

The last indepth look into organized crime by the McClellan committee came in 1963-64, when extensive hearings into drug traffic netted voluminous testimony on the structure and leaders of the cosa nostra or mafia.

Torment Ends for Girl Who Befriended Blacks

SWEETWATER, Fla. (UPI) — The chants of "Nigger-lover" faded into phone calls of praise Friday for 11-year-old Mary Perkins, who spent her $10 Christmas fund on poor Negro children.

"All kinds of help is coming in now, from older people, teen-agers and younger kids," reported Mary's mother, Isabel Perkins.

"Mary is so happy. This has restored all of her faith. She feels safe now."

"PEOPLE HAVE been calling from everywhere, from all over Miami and South Florida, ever since they read about what Mary did and what happened," said Mrs. Perkins.

"The calls ... all say the same thing — they're sorry about what happened but they think Mary did a wonderful thing."

The pretty sixth grader, who is white, broke into her Christmas bank after reading in a newspaper about a black family being evicted just before Christmas, and the policeman who put up $36 he had saved for Christmas to get the family a room for the night.

Mary spent the money she had saved for presents for her parents on presents for the four children of the black family. She sent the money to a newspaper, and when a story appeared about Mary's good deed, a group of white youngsters in this little town on the edge of the Everglades outside Miami began harassing her.

They beat her once, on Christmas day, and gathered outside her house to chant obscenities and "nigger-lover."

Mrs. Perkins said police at first told her they could not help, but then a constable filed charges against four of the teens accused of beating Mary.

The mayor also stopped by the house to comfort the family, and offers of help came from county police.

"Now I think things will blow over," Mrs. Perkins said. "I think this town is going to be peaceful. We have a lot of decent families here, some beautiful, beautiful people. The calls I've been getting all say they are 100 per cent behind us."

SHE SAID the group of teen-agers who taunted

Mary numbered 12 to 15 at one time but she believes they represented a minority of the town.

Mary was in school Friday while her mother answered the constantly ringing telephone. But Mrs. Perkins said the incidents had not changed her daughter's mind about what she did.

"We're going to do some more things," said the mother. "We're going to get involved in all kinds of things that help people."

TEENS GET INTO POLITICAL ARENA

By JOHN COTTER

Their new voter registration cards still stiff and shiny, some American teen-agers are wasting no time getting into the political arena and they're starting at the bottom.

Less than a week after the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the right of 18-year-olds to vote in federal elections, 19-year-old David Gilmartin ran for the common council in a Massachusetts city. He lost the race but not his enthusiasm.

In New York this week, 19-year-old Patrick W. Doherty became the first teen-aged Democratic committeeman in Long Island's Nassau County, a heavily populated New York City suburban area. The appointment came only days after he registered to vote.

A GROUP of teen-agers in Arkansas registered as a lobby and began pressing the state Legislature to extend the 18-year-old vote to state elections.

In Indianapolis, three youths went to court and blocked the bonfire of Christmas trees, a traditional observance. They argued it would pollute the city.

The court fight was led by Craig Capehart, a grandson of former Republican Sen. Homer Capehart. The 19-year-old sophomore at Depauw University is working part-time without salary at the city's air pollution control bureau.

"I think the 18-year-old vote is going to have a big effect," Doherty said in an interview Friday. "The system hasn't been responsive to 18-year-olds until now, and until recently young people haven't really tried to get involved."

"It used to be that kids voted like their parents," Doherty added, "but that's not true anymore. The Nixon-Agnew policies have just about welded young people into a voting bloc, which we've never had before."

DOHERTY, an honor student in the prelaw program at Hofstra University, has been engaged in politics for several years: he worked in the presidential campaigns of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy. But now that he has the vote, he feels things are changed.

"Now when you campaign for a candidate, you can approach people as equal citizens," he said. "It's bound to have an effect."

Although he is the only teen-ager among 1,898 members on the Nassau County Democratic Committee, Doherty believes he can be effective.

"I hope the full committee will respond to my ideas. If I do my job, I think they will."

Doherty's job, as he sees it, is to get young people registered in the Democratic party.

Like Doherty, Gilmartin, who lost his bid for a council seat in a special election in Fitchburg, Mass., plans to work for registration of 18-year-olds. The Fitchburg state college freshman also intends to run for the council in the fall, campaigning against air and water pollution and what he feels are needless expenditures in the budget of the city of 43,000.

A 19-year-old running for office, however, does have problems.

"After I made my two-minute presentation before the council, as all candidates were allowed," Gilmartin said, "this councilor came over to me and said, 'That was a great presentation. If you were 42 I'd vote for you.'"

Sergeant, Officer Want Viet Duty--But Together, Please

LT. BROWN HAPPILY SERVES SGT. BROWN And They Don't Want Air Force to Separate Them —AP Wirephoto

DANVERS, Mass. (U) — Admitting to being out of step with many others in the military, two Air Force members want to go to Vietnam.

That is, provided that they are assigned to the same base. They happen to be married — to each other.

Sgt. Laurence Brown, 23, is under orders to report to McChord Air Force Base, Wash., Jan. 17 for transportation to an air base at Phan Rang.

Lt. Mary Brown, 23, an Air Force nurse, is under orders to report to Travis Air Force Base Calif., Jan. 14 for transportation to a base at Tan Son Nhut — 160 miles from Phan Rang.

The sergeant and the lieutenant have served in the Air Force together at various bases in the last two years.

Sgt. Brown has a year and a half remaining of his enlistment.

Lt. Brown completed her two-year duty, then signed for another, after she said she was assured she could be assigned to the same base with her husband in Vietnam.

FTC Head Raps Advertising

NEW YORK (UPI) — Miles W. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, said Friday business is tarnishing its own reputation with shoddy, uninformative advertising that insults the public's taste.

FTC has greatly accelerated enforcement of federal laws against false advertising.

In his prepared remarks, Kirkpatrick said much advertising "repels me as insulting to good judgment and taste."

The speech before the International Newspaper Advertising Executives was by far Kirkpatrick's strongest public statement since taking office Sept. 15. Under his leadership the

"Far from giving even the minimum of information upon which an interested person might make a selection of products among alternatives, the effort appears frequently to be to obscure the relevant information and to bring other considerations to the foreground," he said.

Kirkpatrick said the FTC neither has nor seeks authority to regulate advertising taste.

"But it does seem to me that the amount of shoddy advertising must be a significant factor in the average consumer's concept of American business and the American businessman," he said.

COMPUTER DATING SWINDLES BARED

By SUSAN EVERLY

NEW YORK (U) — One was a lame girl, one a traveling salesman, another a middle-aged widow. Lonely, seeking companionship with the opposite sex, they paid hundreds of dollars to computer dating firms.

And what did they get for their money?

"We thought because she's handicapped it would be a good way to meet people, but she has not had one date," said Mrs. Doree Miller of Careret, N.J., whose daughter walks with two canes, and paid $395 for dates that never materialized.

"I could have done better by taking names out of a phone book," said the salesman, Stanley Pekar-sky of Brooklyn. He paid $500, received five names, found all five women unsuitable.

"He was old enough to be my grandfather," said the middle-aged widow, Harriet Welner of Flushing, Queens, of the first date she got for her $395. She tried again and came up with a man of an unsuitable religion.

Their stories and others like them came at a public hearing Friday by the state attorney general's office into dating firms, to determine if the booming industry of computerized matchmaking needs state regulating.

"Sometimes it seems that the matches are made only on the basis of 'You're a guy, and I'm a girl,'" said Asst. Atty. Gen. Stephen Mindell, whose office has been flooded with complaints that the dating firms failed to match couples even in such basic areas as age, religion and height.

Dr. J. R. Block, chairman of psychology at Hofstra University, said firms that claim to match couples on the basis of 30 separate questions would need a file of at least one billion persons to accomplish this. However, he said he believed there was a place for properly-regulated dating firms.

About 50 veterans of computer dating were in the hearing room, most of them women.

Bernadette Ciscio, 24, signed a $500 contract, specifying that she wanted to date college-educated men. Instead, she said, all she drew were dorks.

Byron Ross, 24, who lives in Brooklyn, paid $500 and found himself matched with a woman who lived in Connecticut.

And Walter P. Gordon, over six feet tall and very thin, paid $500 to a match-making firm. He said he got one date for his money, a girl 5-feet-2 and 180 pounds.

GREATER LONG BEACH

A MARKET APART FROM LOS ANGELES

Even though there are 77 incorporated cities in Los Angeles County, only two cities stand out in population and economic strength ... Los Angeles and Long Beach. Marketers and their ad agencies have long realized that Greater Long Beach has never been a "bedroom community" to Los Angeles ... like the San Fernando Valley, for instance. We generate our own jobs here ... our own shopping ... our own recreation ... our own colleges ... our own Port ... even our own newspapers! A recent study by the American Association of Advertising Agencies reveals that even though there are 23 daily newspapers in Los Angeles County, only three can be considered metropolitan daily newspapers ... that penetration by the Los Angeles Times into Metropolitan Long Beach is only 15%, the Herald-Examiner only 7.8%. The people ... the economy ... the newspapers make Long Beach a Market Apart from L.A.

Doctor on Trial Jury Still in False Billing Incomplete

A Long Beach doctor, charged with falsifying billings to the Medi-Cal program for three patients went on trial Friday before Superior Judge Roy J. Brown.

The state claims that eye, ear, nose and throat specialist Sidney G. Stern, knowingly inflated charges for examination and treatment of Mrs. Vera Parker Robinson and her husband, Allie, both of 4961 Katella Ave., Cypress, and Christina Fabricius, of 7825 Tibana St., Long Beach.

DR. STERN was on the witness stand being questioned by his attorney, Albert C. S. Ramsey, at the close of hearing Friday when Judge Brown recessed the trial to 1:30 p.m. Monday.

The specialist testified that the job of billing and selecting numbered fee codes for charges to Medi-Cal was done by secretaries.

He said that before April, 1970, he also left with secretaries the job of contacting official sources for interpretations of Medi-Cal bulletins on how to bill under numbered codes of a "relative value study" prepared by a physicians committee of the California Medical Association.

That month an agent of the state Department of Health Care Services paid him an investigation visit, and since May he has been personally studying the bulletins and interpretations, Dr. Stern testified.

THE DEFENSE asked Judge Brown to hear the trial without a jury.

Deputy District Attorney Martin Ohlgian is seeking to show that Miss Fabricius paid only one visit for eye testing, but she was not billed for listed services, but for a second date when she was not there.

He is trying to prove the doctor knew of false listings for her and also for the Robinsons.

Among witnesses who have testified for Dr. Stern is Long Beach ophthalmologist Dr. Orville W. Cole.

Dr. Cole said his practice is to depend on his office staff for the mechanics of billing.

"If I had to check every billing," he stated at one point, "and check it against the day sheet for every patient, I would give up taking care of any patients under this system as totally impossible."

Status of Centers to Be Changed

A day-long orientation session today at Belmont Plaza, 4000 E. Ocean Blvd., will be the first step in incorporating Neighborhood Centers in East and North Long Beach as independent organizations.

Special guest at 10:30 a.m. will be Kermit Scott, consultant to the Long Beach Commission on Economic Opportunities, who managed the campaign of Assemblyman Ron Delums, D-Berkeley.

The two Neighborhood Centers will become independent July 1. During their first three years, the centers were agencies of Family Service of Long Beach. The centers will now be managed by a community-chosen board of directors.

Work to Continue on Downey Center

Despite the Los Angeles County building freeze to curb county fund deficits, improvements at the new Downey Administrative Center appear scheduled to move ahead.

County Engineer John A. Lambie has recommended that the Strauss Construction Co. be allowed to go ahead with a $427,665 contract to remodel a portion of the county's new center at 9150 E. Imperial Highway. The building was purchased from North American-Rockwell Co. last year.

The firm offered the lowest of 14 bids to prepare an 18,640-square-foot area with special flooring and other facilities to house a data processing center. Lambie noted that the bid was 21 per cent under the engineering estimates.

The computer area will be enclosed within two-hour fire retardant steel stud and metal lath plaster partitions acoustically treated. The work is expected to be completed by April.

The county building freeze was one of several steps taken to avert a projected $59-million deficit by the end of the fiscal year.

Assistant county administrative officer T.C. Durkce explained that the project is being allowed to proceed because it is needed, and it is being financed by retirement funds. While the county will eventually have to pay off the retirement bond under a long term lease, the contract will have no immediate impact on the county's cash flow situation.

Career Employee New Downey Postmaster

S. Jean Brewer, 53, officer in charge of the Downey Post Office and its branch stations becomes Downey's permanent postmaster today. Russell James, regional director of the San Francisco office of the U.S. Postal Department, announced Friday.

Brewer, a career postal employee, succeeds Stanley

Powell who retired as Downey's postmaster on Feb. 14, last year, after 14 years in the office. Prior to being named officer in charge of the post office, Brewer served as assistant postmaster for nine years.

Brewer came to Downey from Oklahoma in 1935, and started working in the Downey Post office in 1935.

Jackson League Head Says Vet Stadium Fees too High

A reduction in fees charged by the city for use of Veterans Memorial Stadium by local high schools has been asked by the Moore League.

A STUDY OF fees levied in 1969 and 1970 show the average basic charge at Veterans Stadium is $641.21 more than similar fees at other stadiums, according to Milton Sager, league president.

When considering total costs, which include such things as police patrol, attendants, ambulance service and game officials, Veterans Stadium averages $847.84 more than other stadiums, Sager said.

In a letter to the City Council, which will be on Tuesday's agenda, Sager wrote that Wilson, Millikan and Jordan high schools no longer use the stadium for home games, except when Millikan plays Lakewood, because "it has been priced out of reach." Poly High has moved home games to other school sites whenever they are available, he said.

SAGER SAID the basic charge at other stadiums normally includes use of the scoreboard, public address system and clean-up.

"Only at Veterans Stadium have we found these items added to the basic charge," he wrote.

He contended also that minimum fees and the percentage of admissions charged by the city at Veterans Stadium are higher than at other stadiums.

Speaking for the Moore League, Sager asked the city to reduce its current 13 per cent charge on admissions to 10 per cent, "or less," and to include the use of the scoreboard, public address system and clean-up in the basic charge.

Long Beach gets added income from parking, which many other stadiums do not get, Sager said. He cited East Los Angeles City College, Cerritos, El Camino, and Mt. San Antonio colleges.

If current charges are not lowered, Sager said, it is "inevitable" that local high schools will seek to schedule games elsewhere.

L.B. Children's Hospital Sets Lowest Rates of All

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

California's newest children's hospital, which recently opened in Long Beach, has announced a schedule of patient charges lower than the rates at any other major children's hospital in the state.

A comparison of charges at the state's six children's hospitals shows that the Long Beach facility's rates will run as much as $70 a day less for intensive care.

For general care, the rate will be less by $29 a day.

The survey was disclosed by officials of the Earl and Lorraine Miller Children's Hospital Medical Center. The new facility is part of the Memorial Hospital Medical Center campus at 2801 Atlantic Ave.

Paul Nichol, chairman of the board of trustees of the new hospital, put it this way:

"We've made a really determined effort to get the most value out of every dollar. We are combining ultramodern facilities and first-class services with many new ideas in economy and efficiency.

"We want the parents who carry the burden of hospitalization costs and the donors who make gifts for needy children to get the most value possible out of the money they spend for health care in this hospital."

Hospital officials said that a comparison of rates as of year's end showed the following range for general care per day:

Long Beach Children's, $55; Children's Hospital of Orange County at Orange, $63; Children's Hospital of Los Angeles, $67 to $76; Children's Hospital Medical Center of Northern California at Oakland, $77 to $84; Children's Health Center at San Diego, $80 to $84; and Valley Children's Hospital and Guidance Clinic at Fresno, $80.

For intensive care, daily rates for the hospitals are as follows:

Long Beach, $90; Orange County, $95; Los Angeles, $100; Oakland, $135; San Diego, $120; and Fresno, $140. (Orange County Children's has a separate rate of $135 per day for children suffering with respiratory distress.)

The 114-bed Long Beach Children's has a flat rate for general patient care, regardless of whether the rooms are private, two-bed or four-bed. Most of the rooms have two beds.

There also is a flat rate for intensive care. Most of the rooms in intensive care units, except for the nursery, are one-bed accommodations.

The new Long Beach Children's is connected by corridors to the adult general hospital facilities of Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

A spokesman for the center said that this arrangement is responsible, in part, for various major savings.

For if Children's had been built as an entirely separate facility, it would have required about 250 employees to staff it at full capacity. Linking it to a general hospital made it possible to add only 120 persons to the medical center payroll.

The spokesman estimates that at least $3 million was saved at the outset by avoiding duplication of existing facilities and equipment such as laboratory, surgery suite, food service, emergency suite, radiology service, laundry, house-keeping, administrative offices, maintenance, business offices, clinical physiology, audio-visual service, electrodiagnostic department, pharmacy and central supply.

Money for construction was a gift from Mrs. Lorraine Miller Collins and her late husband, Earl Burns Miller, a Long Beach contractor. The facility was equipped by gifts totaling nearly $1 million from individuals, organizations and firms. A saving of more than $100,000 a year comes from the gift status because of the elimination of interest cost on loans, a spokesman said.

Hospital planners have devised various labor-saving methods.

Traffic patterns have been established to save steps between service areas.

Cupboards in patient rooms open into the room and also into the corridor so that aides may keep them supplied. This saves nursing time for patients.

Ice-water faucets in each room eliminate the old chore of constantly carrying cold water from a distance.

A pneumatic tube system is available for speedy handling of orders. A dumbwaiter carries specimens to the laboratory.

Vinyl walls were built, to save cleaning and painting time.

Orange Co. CSLB Officials Criticize Beauty Show Set Feb. 25 Walkout on Hearings

The 1971 Miss Orange County Pageant will be Feb. 25 at the Anaheim Convention Center, a sponsoring committee announced Friday.

Del Keiter, president of the Miss Orange County Pageant Association, appointed Rose Marie Carney as chairman of a banquet preceding the beauty show. Jerry Chaney was named to arrange coverage of the event and Linda Gibbs as ticket chairman.

Carey Gibbs, pageant producer, said rehearsals will be called soon.

Sharon Turner, of Anaheim, the reigning Miss Orange County, will be adviser to the 1971 crop of hopefuls, and her mother, Mrs. Peggy Turner, will be their chaperone.

In the wake of five student disciplinary hearings and a week of peaceful protest rallies and marches, officials at California State College, Long Beach, have voiced their own dissatisfaction over the controversy.

Supporters of five student members of the Oct. 24 Coalition, who boycotted their hearings after administrators refused to make the proceedings public, were inactive Friday on the campus.

Two administrators involved in the hearing procedures, however, indicated they felt the five students — charged with chanting obscenities, in effect disturbing the peace, during a Dec. 7 demonstration on campus against military recruiters — had erred in walking out of their hearings.

The five students — Tom Blackburn, Rick Anthony, Marie Mulder, Jerry Harris and Ron Kolley — boycotted the hearings, charging they were "railroaded," and in violation of their constitutional rights.

Workers to Vote on Union Oil Pact

Negotiators for Union Oil Co. and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union reached tentative agreement Friday on a new, two-year contract.

UNION MEMBERS will meet at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday, to ratify or reject it.

The agreement Friday was the second of the week; on Wednesday, Texaco Oil Co. and OCAW negotiators also came to terms and that agreement is to be submitted to the union membership at 1 and 3 p.m., today.

Shell Oil reached agreement with OCAW earlier and the ratified contract is now awaiting approval of the union's contracts committee at Denver, Colo.

Only one company has signed a contract with the union, Gulf Oil coming to terms a week ago. The Gulf settlement — which is expected to be the pattern for the industry here — includes pay increases of 8.5 per cent in 1971 and 7.5 per cent in 1972, the hike measuring about 75 cents per hour over the two year span.

Still in negotiations are Atlantic Richfield and Phillips Petroleum along with major independents Getty and Douglas.

A SPOKESMAN for Atlantic Richfield reported that an agreement with OCAW could come by Monday.

"We are making progress," said the spokesman, "and ironing out the details."

Approximately 5,500 OCAW members in the Long Beach area are affected by the bargaining.

Merchants Plead for Reward Aid

The Downtown Long Beach Associates Friday asked citywide participation in the drive to raise a $5,000 to $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Long Beach sports shop owner Cyril Ball and his son, Jim.

Donations for the reward fund should be mailed to the DLBA office, 320 Pine Ave., Suite 209.

Contributions should include a return address so checks may be returned if the reward isn't claimed by the end of the year.

Ball, 67, and his son, James, 37, were shot to death by bandits at their store, 345 Long Beach Blvd., Dec. 26.

Thieves in Office
Burglars, who smashed a plate glass window to gain entry, stole five electronic typewriters valued at $2,600 from Twining Laboratories, 3310 Airport Way, Long Beach police said Friday.

Policeman to Be Tried for Assault

A Los Angeles police officer Friday was ordered to stand trial on charges of hitting a Negro parole officer on the head with a gun on the Santa Ana Freeway.

PATROLMAN Patrick McDonald, in a preliminary hearing in Downey Municipal Court, was held to answer on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

A similar charge against Los Angeles Police Sgt. Wayne Edward Songer Jr. was dismissed.

Also dismissed against Songer was an additional felony charge of maliciously throwing an object at a moving vehicle, a car driven by the parole officer, Frederick H. Mills, 33, of Los Angeles.

McDonald is due for arraignment in Southeast Superior Court, Norwalk, Jan. 21, said Philip Millett, the deputy district attorney who presented the prosecution evidence.

THE POLICEMEN, both Caucasians, were off duty and in plain clothes when an incident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Aug. 14 on a Downey section of the freeway.

Downey police presented evidence to the district attorney's office after investigating the altercation that occurred when the officers pulled Mills' car over after an apparent near-accident.

Ruling Due Next Week in Beard vs. Dungeon Case

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

A ruling is expected by the middle of next week on the plea of a 28-year-old prisoner at the Federal Correctional Institution at Terminal Island that he be released from solitary confinement where he has been held for 10 months for refusing to cut his hair or beard.

U.S. DIST. Judge David W. Williams took the case under submission Friday.

Steven R. Winsby, of San Diego, is serving a three-year term on a marijuana charge.

U.S. Chief Correctional Supervisor Howard K. Welch said under oath that the first time Winsby mentioned religious grounds as the basis for his refusal was about two months after he was placed in solitary confinement.

"This is an ex post facto fabrication," Ostroff said, "a law made up after the fact."

"There is only one hope for the unbridled, unchecked arrogance and insensitivity of these officials," Ostroff said, "and that is this court."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Alan W. Peryam, who defended the prison officials, said that the 10 months in a dungeon did not constitute "cruel and unusual punishment." He summed up the case against Winsby by saying that he could "walk out" of the six-by-eight-foot cell any time he is willing to submit to a haircut and a shave.

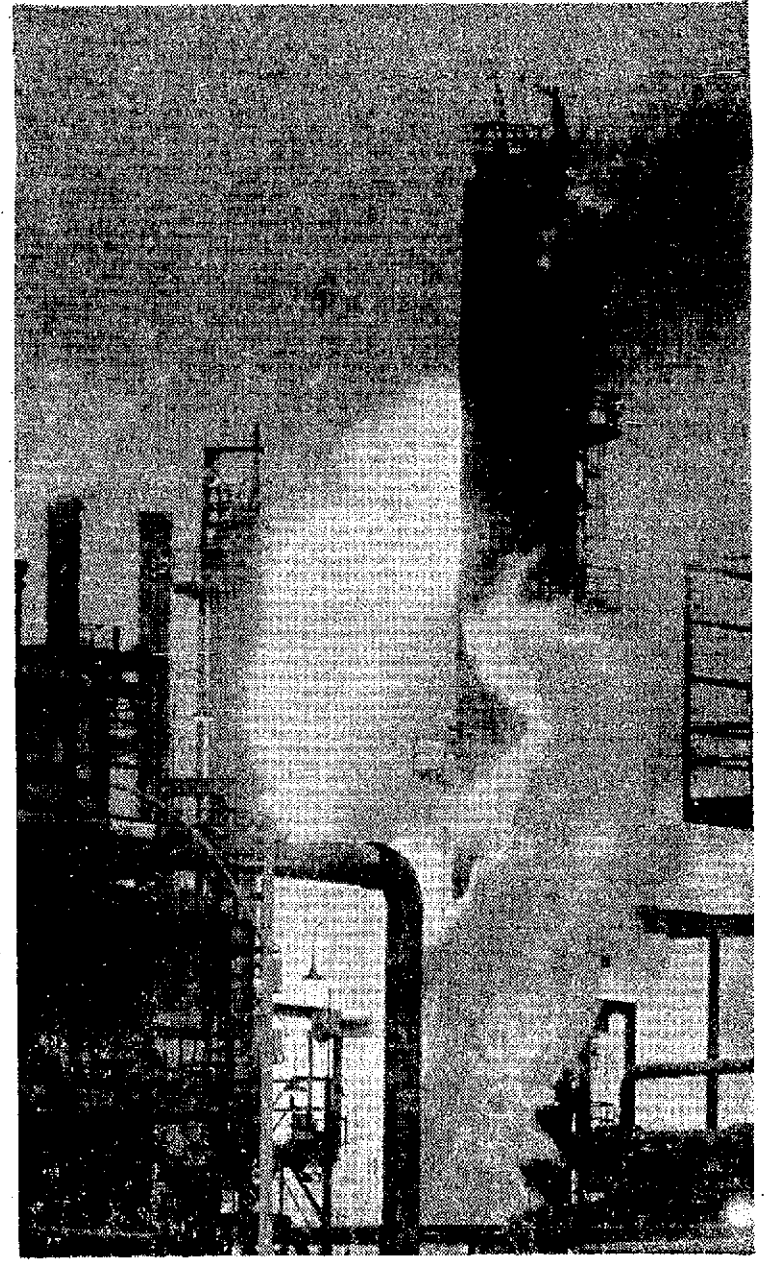

In regard to the issue of religious freedom, Peryam said that the prison's policy against long hair and beards was well within the boundaries of "permissible infringement" on freedom of religion.

Ostroff, however, contended that the action by the prison officials was "a textbook example" of a law being invoked "for no valid objective save harassment." Winsby, said Ostroff, did not come to court to try to tell the prison officials how to handle prisoners.

"We are, instead, asking the court to tell them (the prison officials) what they may not do to solve their problems," he said.

Pollution Cloud Released by Breakdown at Refinery

A massive cloud of smoke and gas covered the San Pedro-Wilmington area Friday afternoon following a breakdown at the Atlantic-Richfield Watson Refinery at 1801 E. Sepulveda Blvd.

The Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District reported it received the first call on the giant pollution cloud at 2:19 p.m. Six air pollution control inspectors were dispatched to the refinery.

Atlantic-Richfield also called the district to report a breakdown and resulting pollution from its refinery.

Dense clouds of smoke were still escaping from the refinery as night fell. Most of the smoke was coming from one of the refinery's flares, which was being used to burn escaping gases.

The air pollution control district and nearby city halls were flooded with calls of complaints about the pollution.

Atlantic-Richfield representatives were unavailable for comment.

The air pollution control district was unable to estimate when the breakdown would be repaired.

"It looked like a ship had blown up in the harbor," said one observer, who saw the flare and the smoke from the Long Beach freeway, enroute here from Los Angeles.

Forecast For Sunday

Your birthday today! Aside from emotional stresses, this coming year is one of healthy, normal growth, in which you achieve a better combination of material prosperity, social activity, self-improvement. Conventional approaches work out better than economic theories. Today's natives are noted for intense determination. The depth of their wisdom is the determining factor in how well they succeed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Anything that starts now today is unlikely to last long. Each of your friends is on his own erratic course. Share favorite pastimes with those willing, the more the merrier.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The morning begins with a surprise. People change their minds, or don't know for sure what they want. Patience with distractions shows your maturity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What you do this Sunday is noticed by all around, and there are some hoping for your support. Be conventional, share in the community's expression of faith.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Staying near home and cultivating your relations with friends and neighbors may not be the most exciting thing to do, but it works. Inexpensive pastimes are favored.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may be caught off-balance and unprepared. Stay out of reach of casual interruptions. Friends try to involve you in schemes, drawing a loud protest from somebody in your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Previously made plans turn out unfeasible, as conditions change during the day. Some people cannot carry their shares. Skipping cars doesn't work very well.

LIBRA (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have to delay your own plans to help others cope with sudden problems. Your turn to spring surprises will be more meaningful if you wait until this restless weekend is over.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Follow the Sunday archetypes. Let mechanical things alone, unless you have the skills and tools to fix them. Don't become involved in something that can't be interrupted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep the peace today, beginning with those you cherish. News brings many different reactions; some people are in a rebellious mood. The evening is for meditation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take news with a grain of salt - more is yet to come. Stay with previously settled plans. Experiments won't work, but do show up factors you hadn't thought about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Enough people are pulling on a "tomorrow" act without you doing it, tempting as it may be to make abrupt changes. It's an evening for solitary meditation.

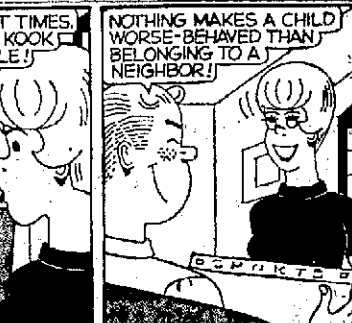

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Younger people upset plans; older people can't make an amusement choice. Your own restless urges stir people out of their comfortable habits and cause a lively dispute.

REDGOLD — AARS 1971 Winner Adds Color

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

New roses provide color interest, vigor and rejuvenation in an established rose garden. This is true whether they're older varieties of roses or the newest of All America Award Winner Roses for 1971.

The three 1971 AARS winners are COMMAND PERFORMANCE, a shapely compact plant with orange-red blooms; REDGOLD, a compact floribunda with chrome-yellow flowers that have brick red edges; and AQUARIUS, a tall grandiflora bush with beautifully marked pink blossoms.

Rosarians know the value of soil preparation for best growth and blooming results. One of our friends who has won prizes with his roses told us, "It isn't what you see on top of the ground around the roses that is as important as what kind of soil the roses are growing in."

Another factor that helps roses, plants and fruit trees is an organic, top dressing around the plants.

The holes for the roses should be dug at least 18 to 24 inches deep and wide. Soil that was dug out to make the hole should be mixed equally with organic material. This material may be premoistened peat moss, leaf mold, compost soil, one of several of the fine ground barks, well weathered dry manure, or a prepared planter mix mulch.

A handful of soil sulphur and bone meal should be mixed in the bottom of the hole before setting out the rose or other kind of bare root plant. Another material would be a flower-maker fruit maker pellet-form fertilizer containing phosphoric acid such as bone meal provides, plus sulphur and potash.

CLUB NOTE

The Long Beach Garden Club will meet on Wednesday, in the Glendale Federal Savings and Loan Community Room at 5535 Stearns St. It will convene at 11:45 a.m., due to a schedule conflict. The speaker will be Mrs. T. Davis who will give a demonstration and workshop on begonias. Visitors are welcome.

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q — Could you please tell me what kind of a shrub or tree the enclosed leaf is from? It sprouted in a flower bed. I transplanted it to a flower bed when it was about a foot tall. Later I transplanted it into a five gallon can. It is branching out somewhat like a tree. F.M.D.

A. — I took it to Willard Hagen an outstanding tree authority in Southern California. He named it as Fraxinus (ash tree) and thinks it is the specie Cupidata. Had you sent a seed it would have been easier for him to definitely name it.

CSLB

FARBER SAID that other claims by Coalition members and their supporters, including one that executive order 116 is at fault for precluding open hearings, were also false.

"I've been on this campus since 1960," he said, "and to my knowledge, disciplinary hearings have always been closed."

He added that other examples of the colleges' cooperation with the five charged students were the initial granting of their requests for hearings and the offer of photographs of the demonstration to the five for purposes of evidence.

"There have been many untruths, half-truths made — as if they were factual," stated Shainline, "and they are not."

CONTRARY to some statements by dissenters, Shainline said, at least one administrator who witnessed the demonstration had made complaints against students other than just Coalition members.

"I determined in my report that the knocking of a camera from a photographer's hands was a violation of the regulations," said Shainline.

A photographer for The Forty-Niner student newspaper received a cut on his forehead when another person struck the camera as he looked through it. Several attempts to identify the person have failed, Farber said, and no charges have resulted from the incident.

"I also made a statement on a student who struck Ron Kelley," Shainline added. "In my opinion that was also a violation." He was unsure whether that person had been charged.

"I CAN TELL you this," he said. "Next time, we'll have more people on hand to watch."

Next move in the hearing process rests with Cal State President Stephen Horn, who must evaluate the findings of the hearing officers.

Shainline said Horn intends to study the findings of each case before choosing one of four options open to him.

SAYS 1ST ORDAINED WOMAN LUTHERAN

'Males Aren't Saved More Specially Than Females...'

(This concludes an interview with Rev. Elizabeth A. Platz, first woman in America to be ordained into the Lutheran ministry. The interview with the U. of Maryland campus pastor was by a director of the Lutheran Council News Bureau.)

Q. As to the clerical collar...

A. Whether I'll wear a clerical collar has been a sort of test for my liberal clergy friends. Most of them have known me for about five years. When they started saying to me, "It's great that you're going to be ordained," I'd reply, "Won't it be great. The first time we have a District pastors meeting, or chaplains meeting, I'll be able to wear a clerical collar." And their jaws really dropped.

Q. How do you view your ordination in light of the women's liberation movement?

A. As I understand the women's liberation movement — it's the extremists who are screaming that because we're women we should be given this right, and not just ordination, but whatever it is.

As I understand the "responsible" women's liberation movement, it's asking, "Please, look at us as persons, and treat us as if we are persons, not things." I think that what they're really saying is that there ought to be a kind of equality for all persons. Which is precisely the point I've been trying to make.

I do know that there have been women who have sought ordination because men can be ordained. Now this is a lousy reason to be ordained. Just as I think it's a lousy reason for men to be ordained because their family wants them to be a pastor. I saw this in the seminary, and I've seen it in pastors.

Q. Do you have any comment on the ordination of women in light of the Scriptures?

A. I think it's always dangerous to take pieces of Scripture to prove or disprove things. As I understand the Gospel, as I study it in the whole context of the New Testament and the Old Testament — and we can get into the Old Testament judges, one of whom was a woman, and who were both the religious and political leaders of Israel — the Gospel is directed to the wholeness of persons and human

L.B. Pastor Launches New Radio Program

A new radio program, "A Time of Challenge," has been launched over KGER (1390 on the AM dial) by First Church of the Brethren, featuring the pastor, Rev. James S. Flora, who brings a background of successful radio ministry to the venture.

The 15 minute program is heard every Saturday at noon. Rev. Flora, a native Virginian who came to the church at 3332 Magnolia Ave. last August, received a favorable response to nine years of having his sermons broadcast regularly over WLBR in Lebanon, Pa.

He is a graduate of Bridgewater College, Bethany Theological Seminary, and has attended Boston University and Princeton. In 1960 he was nominated as one of the "Outstanding Young Men in America."

The new program is described as a Christian challenge for living in today's world. Music is part of the devotional period, and on occasions a free printed copy of the message is offered to listeners.

NEWS OF RELIGION

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—B-3
Long Beach, Calif., Sat., Jan. 9, 1971

worth and the love of all men.

All men are saved. Males aren't saved more specially than females are. And I think that has to be taken into account.

Q. In other words, the Apostle Paul...

A. I think that the cultural conditions of St. Paul's time may have had a lot to do with the attitude toward women. I think there was a strong cultural and psychological reaction particularly among the early Jews against "Astarte" and all this kind of fertility-priestess-oriented religion, with its excesses, that the Jews found themselves surrounded by — a reaction that is prevalent in Judaism and in the Judeo-Christian heritage.

I'm in agreement with the findings of the study made by the Lutheran Council in the USA's theological studies division, undertaken at the request of Lutheran church bodies — namely, that the Scriptures neither endorse nor forbid the ordination of women.

Q. What's been the general reaction to the news of your ordination?

A. I have two files of letters. One is about four times larger than the other. The larger file contains letters from people writing me and congratulating me, both laymen and clergy. But there's also that smaller file. Some are letters from people who are really concerned, maybe two or three.

The others are from people who are just plain, you know — "How dare you lead your people into God's wrath?" In the eyes of these people, I am of course going to hell...

Q. That bad!

A. ... and I "most certainly must be an instrument of the devil," and "this is a degradation of Christ and His Church." But the people who write like that are very, very few. I'm happy to say. In general, the reaction has been most positive and encouraging.

Q. Do you care to comment on the attitude of university students toward sex these days? And are there any implications for your ministry and the ministry of the church in general?

A. Well, I do find that students certainly are more open to asking questions, to seeking knowledge, to wanting to discuss sexual ethics. And what they have often encountered from the family as an institution, the school as an institution — both lower grade schools and the university — and also from the church as an institution, is a kind of "Oh, we don't talk about that."

What I think I really hear them saying is "Well, I want to discuss it. I want to know." And I have been amazed when I've been talking to health education professors here at the University, at the lack of knowledge, just biological knowledge, that young people have about themselves. I think the church has to look at this seriously. How can we ask these young people to make responsible decisions if we won't talk with them about it?

Q. Do you see quite a few women seeking ordination in the North American Lutheran churches in the near future?

A. I think that for the next couple of years — well, let me put it this way. I don't think there will be forty or fifty within the next two years. But hopefully we'll have a few ordained. And hopefully all of them will be ordained for reasons — whatever their reasons are — that are sound and solid.

I mention this because I've had an interesting reaction from some officials and others within the church who wanted me to be ordained for the very reason that I thought was all wrong. Because I was a woman!

Q. Any humorous incidents in connection with your situation?

A. I can't recall anything exactly funny, at the moment. Although several weeks ago, things seemed a bit ironically humorous. I guess you could call it. I told Pastor Caspar that I was very upset.

"What's wrong now?" he asked.

"Well, you know, the whole idea of my being ordained," I fumed, "was so that I could do a fuller and better job in the campus ministry. And planning for this ordination is taking up so much time that I haven't had a chance to do anything in the campus ministry."

Q. Any concluding words for all us male preachers?

A. No, I really like men.

YOUTH MINISTER

Charles Schlumpert, 25, will be installed as director of youth ministries for Holy Cross Lutheran Church of Cypress Sunday at three services, highlighted by youth processions. Rev. Arnold G. Kuntz, Southland leader of the Missouri Synod, will preach. Pastor E. D. Thyrt will install Schlumpert, a native Nebraskan and graduate of Concordia Teachers College, Illinois, who comes here from a church in St. Charles, Mo., where he developed a program involving 150 teens.

Set McIntyre Charity Drive

Archbishop Timothy Manning has designated Sunday, Jan. 17, for an annual membership enrollment in The Cardinal McIntyre Fund for Charity, formerly the Archbishop's Fund for Charity. Envelopes will be distributed in parishes of the Archdiocese this Sunday, Jan. 10, to be collected at all Masses on the following Sunday.

I notice where membership in the Society of Divided Hearts is growing. You have not heard of such an organization? It has many members, and seems to be greatly popular with people of every walk of life, which fact puzzles me more than somewhat because, you see, the Society of Divided Hearts never fulfills its contracts and never keeps its promises.
Its members, reaching for two worlds at the same time, miss the advantages of both. Loving God, they still want the world; loving the world, they still want God. They are unwilling to sell out wholly to the devil, but they are also unwilling to commit themselves wholly to God. Striving to please two masters as opposite as day and night, they succeed in pleasing neither.
The Society really has nothing at all to offer, especially when one remembers the words of the Christ of God: "No man can serve two masters... ye cannot serve God and mammon."

BRIEFLY...

1971 Shook Sect; Static on White House Services

By LES RODNEY

"Science has made gods of us before we have deserved to be men." Pungent quote is from Christianity and Crisis magazine.

THE ENDING of 1970 and start of 1971 came as something of a shock to members of a branch of The True Light Church of Christ, with followers in the Carolinas. They had been taught that the world would end in 1970. Some gave up their jobs in expectation of the end, including an elder who resigned his 23-year job with the Camden, S.C. postoffice and now finds the job filled.

Many of the sect, who consider themselves the only "elect" who will be saved by God at the Second Coming, gathered in large groups in members' homes New Year Eve, waiting.

While many evangelical Christians believe that this is the era of the end time as written in the Book of Revelations, most, including Jehovah's Witnesses and the Seventh-day Adventists, have long ago concluded that playing guessing games with years is not Biblical prophecy. The major denominations have never gone in for naming exact times for a Second Coming.

NATIONAL HEAD-QUARTERS staff of the Episcopal Church will be cut by 50 per cent between now and June 30, as stipulated by the executive council last month. Major factor in the reduction from 204 full time people to 103 is the drop in financial support of the church at the national level.

Church workers may soon rank with aerospace engineers as a disaster-area occupation.

SEEING THE debris waiting to be swept up after the newsroom's ersatz holiday tree was dismantled, reminded one of that great comment on Hollywood: "Beneath all the false tinsel of Hollywood lies the real tinsel."

ACCORDING to the publication "Church and State," several ministers and laymen in Washington, D.C. are gathering legal materials to bring suit to halt the Sunday morning worship services conducted at the invitation of President Nixon in the White House.

Their basic claim is that use of public facilities for worship by pre-selected individuals violates the proper separation of church and state. Roman Catholic theologian Michael Novak adds that some religious leaders, while not attacking the President's motivation are uneasy about possible "mixing of religion and politics," and the appearance of blessing the politics of a particular administration, rather than remaining above it all and holding Christian conduct as the test for everyone, including presidents.

Novak would undoubtedly be answered by clergymen who have participated in the East Room services that their appearance signified no approval or disapproval of any politics, that prayer for spiritual guidance for the nation is not partisan, and that they would happily accept such prayer invitations from leaders of any political party.

"THE PSALMS for Modern Man," first complete Old Testament book in Today's English Version, hit the desk this week, courtesy of the American Bible Society. The attractive, 211-page paperback, containing 150 sacred songs or hymns, is on the same idea as the phenomenally successful "Good News for Modern Man," and like it is published on a non-profit basis. You can get "The Psalms for Modern Man" at 10 cents a copy through the American Bible Society office in Los Angeles.

Dr. Dean S. Collins, executive for the 13-state Western office makes this topical comment: "Because of numerous references to our natural order, this volume of Psalms ought to be popular with

CATHOLIC, PROTESTANT LEADERS IN MEET HERE

Archbishop Manning, Dr. McAfee Brown to Join in Auditorium Unity Celebration

Long Beach will be the scene of an important "first" for Southern California when Roman Catholic Archbishop Timothy Manning joins leading Protestant theologian Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown as featured speakers in a Celebration of Christian Unity at Municipal Auditorium.

The event, free to the public with all invited, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Jan. 24, during the national "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity."

Massed choirs from Long Beach Roman Catholic and Protestant choirs will participate. In preparation for the Auditorium celebration, neighborhood get-togethers of area Catholics and Protestants will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan.

20th, in seven locations to be announced.

Archbishop Manning last year succeeded James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as leader of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, which comprises four counties—Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura and Santa Barbara, with a Catholic population of 1,730,000, served by 318 parishes, 74 high schools and 277 elementary schools. The archdiocese also maintains 18 general hospitals.

Dr. Brown, chaplain at Stanford University, was the chief U.S. Protestant observer at the Second Vatican Council, and is considered a leading spirit in the ecumenical movement for improved relationships.

FROM THE PULPIT
We do what we plan to do, and we plan to do what we desire to do the most. Every person who names the name of Christ should de-throne every object of affection that crowds out our worship and service unto the Lord.
Therefore, I urge you to plan your relationship with the Lord for this year. Spiritual things are not to be considered lightly. This is the error in the reasoning of too many Christians.
When you miss Sunday worship it simply means that you have de-throned Christ in your heart. It also means that you did not plan your relationship with God properly.
Plan to study God's Word in His House. Plan to worship Him. Plan growth for your spiritual life. Plan to sow some spiritual seed. Plan to do some work in God's vineyard. Plan to train your family in spiritual things. Plan to be a faithful steward.
If you plan it, you will do it. If you do not plan it, spiritually the year will be a waste. Think about it!

Finding Peace in a Noisy World

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

There are times when I'm inclined to agree with an old Swiss inscription that "silence is golden." And Sunday morning a few weeks ago was definitely one of those times! I was speaking as usual at Marble Collegiate Church when a large band of motorcycle drivers roared by. It seems that this group was demonstrating against a city ordinance that requires a motorcycle driver to wear a helmet, and they chose 11 o'clock on Sunday morning to roar defiantly down Fifth Avenue past the church.

It sounded like a fleet of jet airplanes passing overhead. The noise was deafening. It saddened me that a noisy demonstration was taking place on a Sunday morning when things should be quiet so people can worship in a temple of peace. Today, unfortunately, we are constantly surrounded by noise, and there is no doubt that noise contributes to tension.

NOISE HAS officially been termed a pollutant! It is definitely a health hazard in addition to being a terrible annoyance.

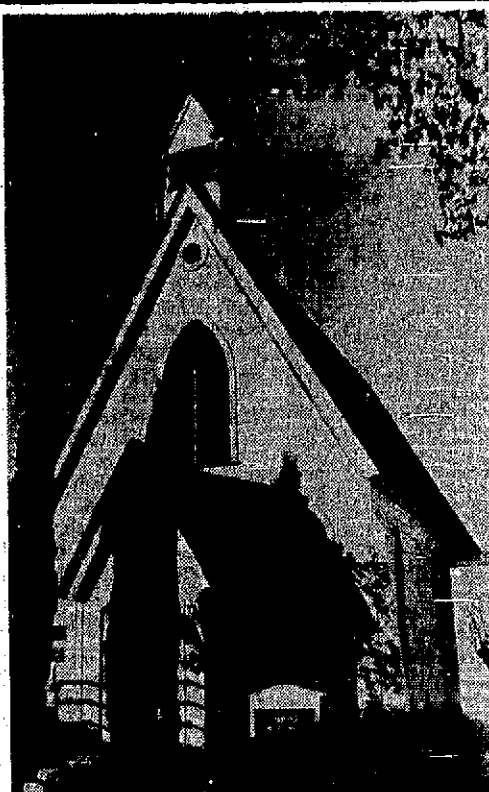

The trouble with the noises in today's world is that they are rasping, shrill and stridently mechanical. I read of a woman who said that one day every machine in her house was turned on. She suddenly became conscious of the cacophony of noise with which she was being bombarded. The dishwasher was swishing, the washing machine growling, the kitchen radio was on. In the living room the television was blasting as bullets ricocheted off canyon walls, and her three sons shouted above the din! The dog began to bark when the doorbell started ringing, and outside a jet shrieked overhead, a motorcycle roared by, and the lawnmower set up a clatter.

Well, when spring comes, tell you what you do. Some warm days lie down on the earth. Get your ear close down to the ground and listen. You'll hear all manner of sounds — the wind in the trees and the murmur of insects, and you will discover presently that there is in all these sounds a well-regulated tempo. You cannot get that tempo by listening to traffic in the city streets, for it is lost in the confusion of sound. But the peaceful sounds of the earth are entirely different.

If you sleep in a country place, at night you'll hear noises — crickets outside, the croaking of a frog, the whistle of a train far off making its way up the valley, and in the early morning the crowing of a rooster. But these natural noises do not increase tension. You can also commune with nature in the winter-time. Watch the snowflakes. They're not tense. They just float down gracefully.

I WAS speaking in a big tent in Wisconsin before a huge crowd of farmers and people who manufacture feed concentrates and farm equipment. Strangely, there is something about the canvas walls of a tent that takes up noise, so that you still feel you are in a peaceful atmosphere even when a large crowd is present. Along the sides of the tent were exhibits — farm machinery, feed concentrates, and several cages of chickens. The chickens seemed like very well disciplined chickens until, while I was speaking, I suddenly heard the cackling of a hen. It seemed as though the hen was cackling through the loudspeaker along with me! It was so acute that it was funny, and the audience roared with laughter. I told them that it was the first time in my life I'd ever been interrupted by a cackling hen.

NEW LEASE ON LIFE FOR OLD CHURCH

Then a man went over to stop the hen from cackling. He reached under her and brought out a great big egg. I reminded the audience that the hen had laid the egg, not I! It was all sort of nice and natural. There was no tension there — quite different from a hundred or more rasping motorcycles roaring by! So if you feel uptight, feel your way into the essential rhythm of God's works, for those natural sounds can help you find peace in a noisy world.

Working Priest, Episcopal Neighbors Save the Day

The financial crunch which has hit most major denominations — very much including The Episcopal Church — threatened to close the doors of one of the area's handsome old links to the past, — St. John's Episcopal Church of Wilmington, a structure built in 1882 and listed as a county historical monument.

St. John's is a "mission" church — non self-supporting. The hard pressed Southland diocese had to reluctantly inform the congregation that it could no longer underwrite its full-time vicar. Some other missions faced with the same situation have closed their doors.

But the lively little congregation at 1537 Neptune Ave., where it maintains a worship schedule, Sunday School, and is said to have excellent music, has been rescued in a cooperative venture. It will get neighborly help from St. Peter's Episcopal Church of San Pedro, whose rector, Rev. Harry Edwall, will act as vicar. A veteran priest, Rev. Robert O. Gardiner, who is secularly employed, will conduct services, and help in other ways as assistant vicar.

So the dignified frame structure will continue in its 89th year of housing those who seek to serve the Lord.

"Sure it's a water pistol, but it's loaded with holy water!"

Chaplain Crumb Leaves, Honored

More than a decade of service to the patients and staff of Long Beach General Hospital came to a close last week when Chaplain Fred C. Crumb resigned his post for reasons of health. A year ago, he received a commendation from the County Board of Supervisors for his 25 years of devoted and dedicated chaplaincy service in county institutions.

Patients and most of the hospital staff paid tribute at a reception to the non-salaried chaplain who is sponsored by the Hospital Chaplains' Ministry of America, Inc. He was described by Medical Director Everett J. Carmody, as a man whose dedication to serve, often without regard to his own personal health, is legendary. Dr. Carmody presented Chaplain Crumb with a plaque from the Attending Staff Association.

New chaplain will be Rev. Charles P. Walz, who joined the staff last year to assist in the hospital's alcoholism rehabilitation program.

Crusade Class Co-Ed's Vacation

Vicky Gripenrog of Long Beach, a junior at UCLA, spent her Christmas vacation attending a leadership training institute from Dec. 27 to Jan. 2 at Arrowhead Springs, international headquarters for Campus Crusade for Christ. The institute was one of six held simultaneously in various parts of the country, stressing means of communicating the Christian life to others.

What communion means to a Christian Scientist.
We celebrate Jesus' victory over death, and dedicate ourselves to living the truths he taught. Communion is a daily experience. It is a joyous acknowledgment of God's presence in daily living. There's nothing more spiritually rewarding in all the world.
This is what Christian Scientists mean by communion.
If this kind of religion seems meaningful to you, visit our church this Sunday. You'll discover a new concept of church.

Janet Baker in Triumphant Debut

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

What do you call a 31-day period during which local music lovers with time and money enough, can hear Marilyn Horne, Janet Baker, Maralin Niska, Anna Moffo, Carol Neblett, Shirley Verrett, and Grace Bumbry?

A pretty lucky month, I should say. And it is happening, right here and now, in January, 1971.

It began auspiciously, too, Thursday night, when Janet Baker, the justifiably acclaimed English mezzo-soprano, made her Music Center debut, singing Berlioz's "Les Nuits d'été," with the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

As reported here three years ago, when she sang recitals at UCLA and Occidental College, Miss Baker is an international singer in the prime of a major career. She was hampered Thursday night by an often inept, obviously under-rehearsed accompaniment led by the Philharmonic's Music Director, Zubin Mehta, but she triumphed nonetheless.

The actual sound of the voice may be less than voluptuous, but it is invariably lovely, it is handsomely even throughout a wide range, and it is used with consistent, attractive, and projected intelligence.

"LES NUITS D'ETE," except for the shamefully tentative playing of the orchestra brought to it on this occasion, was a marvel of a choice for this debut, too, for it demands a great deal of the variety, the intensity, and the coloration this singer commands. Perhaps by the third and final current performance, Sunday afternoon, the Philharmonic will be able to give Miss Baker the kind of collaboration she deserves.

The other two-thirds of this program bore no obvious, nor even any dubious, relation to the Berlioz cycle. It consisted of the Southland premiere of Leon Kirchner's "Music for Orchestra," and the Third Symphony of Mendelssohn.

Kirchner's angry, sad, exciting, craggy music has often elicited our admiration in the past. For this reason, the newish (1967) 11-minute piece was a disappointment. It is pleasant, it is short, it is witty. It is even accessible. It sports a serial ambience, busy string writing, solo cadenzas for several instruments, exotic percussion sounds, and a long bird-squabble in the woodwinds.

But it is, finally, insubstantial. Perhaps, had I not expected something deep, I wouldn't have been disappointed at something this light. Still, it's a nice piece.

Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony, which closed the program, was not immaculate, but it was pleasurable. The finale, in particular, seemed to grab the listener. Why? Was it the afterglow of Baker's appearance? The fact that Mehta changed shoes (and hats, too: from premiere-giver and accompanist, to genuine maestro) at intermission? Or just the timeless charm of Mendelssohn? Whatever it was, it worked, and we left the Pavilion humming.

SOUTHLAND MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

NO BLADE OF GRASS — A British dramatization of one family's struggle to survive against famine and anarchy in a pollution-choked environment. (R)

WITCHCRAFT 70 — The world of the occult is explored in this documentary-style film. (X)

RIO LOBO — John Wayne plays an ex-Civil War officer who frees a Texas town of carpetbaggers and settles an old score with a wartime informer. (G)

LOVE STORY — Erich Segal's romance is touchingly portrayed by Ryan O'Neal as the Harvard youth and Ali MacGraw as the spirited Radcliffe girl. (GP)

LITTLE FAUSS AND BIG HALSY — Robert Redford and Michael J. Pollard enliven a story of two luckless rural motorcycle racers. (R)

THE ARISTOCATS — Walt Disney feature cartoon plotted around a wealthy Frenchwoman's desire to leave her fortune to her cats.

RYAN'S DAUGHTER — The awesome beauty of the Irish coastline is the background for a frail love story starring Robert Mitchum and Sarah Miles. (R)

LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS — A warm-hearted comedy that examines several marriages. Stars philandering Gig Young as the bride's father at a fancy wedding. (GP)

FIVE EASY PIECES — Jack Nicholson, a former musical prodigy, escapes an intellectually sterile environment by working as a hard hat in a California oil field. (R)

IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD — Top comedians in a re-release of the Stanley Kramer farce based on greed. (G)

CATCH 22 — Alan Arkin sanely appears superbly insane as he is buffeted by his grotesque World War II U.S. bomber squadron mates. Directed by Mike Nichols. From the Joseph Heller novel. (R)

DIRTY DINGUS MAGEE — Frank Sinatra plays a sly, conniving part-time outlaw with a $10 reward on his head in this comedy of the old West. (GP)

EMPHASIS ON REALITY

New Era Dawns in 'Love Story'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Incredible as it may appear, a single film may be responsible for Hollywood motion pictures turning the corner in the 1970s from vulgarity, poor taste and outdated formulas.

The title is "Love Story." Its director is Arthur Hiller, a Canadian who knows where it's at.

The movie is a simple, plotless love story of a young couple in tragic circumstances. But it is real and touching and sensitively drawn.

As Hiller says, "It's not the story of a princess in the tower awaiting rescue. Nor is it a rich boy-poor girl relationship with all the clichés."

THE PICTURE cannot be compared to the old fashioned screen love story which starred, say, Greta Garbo, or Carole Lombard, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Ingrid Bergman, Ronald Colman or even Elizabeth Taylor.

Hiller's emphasis is reality. The story deals with romance but — and this is vital — does not treat it romantically.

The stars, Ryan O'Neal from "Peyton Place" and Ali MacGraw (making only her second movie), are so expertly directed the results are quite likely to win Hiller an Academy Award nomination.

"Erich Segal, the author of the book and the screenplay, captured the feeling of kids today," Hiller said.

"When I first read the script I was against directing it because there was no plot. But then I began to appreciate its values. It's a picture that could have been set at any period in history or in any geographic setting."

"Love Story" may be a new dawn for a confused movie industry.

J.C. Wants to Be Just Like His Uncle Sam

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

On the 13th green at Rancho Park golf course Friday a galleryite looked at the stocky young man lining up a putt and said, "He's the spittin' image of Sam."

It's the same story everywhere Jess Carlyle Snead goes on the PGA tour. He is likened to his famous Uncle Sam by fans who also expect him to play like the legendary "Slammer."

Jess, known to friends as J.C., not only doesn't resemble Sam in looks or physique, his golf game isn't the same—at least it hasn't emerged in three unrelenting years on the circuit.

But all that may change soon. Uncle Sam has taken nephew J.C. under his wing in recent months and the pair have become "very close." It is not surprising, therefore, that J.C.'s game is on the upswing.

He carded a sparkling 68 to win part of the split pro-am of the Los Angeles Open on Wednesday, collecting $750, and he came back at Rancho the next day with another 68 to rank among the leaders.

Snead slipped Friday but his 2-over-par 73 left him in the middle of the pack at 141 and assured him of making the cut.

Since J.C. is playing this year without a sponsor, every cut he makes is crucial because it guarantees him a paycheck and entry into the next tournament.

Snead has always known success as an athlete, so his snail's pace to affluence in golf has not been an easy adjustment—especially when his surname is synonymous with success in golf.

A native of Hot Springs, Va., J.C. went to college on a basketball scholarship but later signed a professional baseball contract with the Washington Senators.

A .318 hitter in this third year, J.C. refused to be demoted, flashed Sam's famous temper by saying there is too much politics in baseball, and promptly took a golf pro's job in White Plains, N.Y.

Three men from that city put him on the tour in 1968 and gave him three years to produce. The best Jess could do was $15,000 last year ($11,547 official winnings) and that doesn't pay expenses. Exit the sponsors.

The transition from baseball to golf hasn't been easy, but J.C. like it because "in golf you make your own league. Nobody holds your contract."

"What I lacked was finesse," says the 6-2, 205-pounder. "I was and still am strong, but in switching to golf I couldn't control my strength. I don't hit it as far now, but I'm not in the bionics as often either."

Just like the other "rabbits" on the tour, Snead has had to battle the dreaded Monday qualifying and then concentrate on making the cut.

The Monday pressure doesn't bother him anymore, he says. He played in 34 tournaments last year and failed to qualify only four times. The "cut" is another story.

ville," says Sue, "and I had never heard of Sam Snead. When people would ask me if J.C. and Sam were related, I'd just shake my head."

Sue thinks the pressure of the Snead name is weighing on her husband, but she is convinced the worst is over and good times are ahead.

"He doesn't let his temper get him now," Sue goes on. "If he has a bad hole, he can adjust to it." J.C. proved this Friday when he double bogged the first hole but kept his composure.

Sue, an attractive blonde, remembers only once in recent months when J.C. got angry, and she takes the blame for that.

"I was supposed to meet him in Pittsburgh but I was in the wrong terminal," Sue recalls with a laugh. "He was there three hours before we ran into each other."

Where Sue erred is that she told a brunette counter girl to page her if J.C.

came on another flight. When he arrived he asked the other counter girl, who was a blonde, and she knew nothing of Sue's presence.

"How dumb can I be," Sue confesses. "I should have known he is partial to blondes. He married one."

THREE L.B. GOLFERS MISS L.A. OPEN CUT

Terry Small of Long Beach made a bold move to make the cut in the Los Angeles Open golf tournament Friday, but he missed by two strokes.

Small, of Virginia Country Club, carded an even-par 71 in his second round, but his opening 75 was too much to overcome.

Playing the back nine first, the SoCal Open champion bogeyed the first two holes Friday, but he birdied Nos. 13, 16 and 17 to turn in 34. He bogeyed Nos. 6 and 8 and birdied the ninth coming in.

Long Beach's other pro entry, pro Dick Carmody, fell on hard times, shooting an 80 for 153. Amateur John Richardson had a 75 for 152.

BOB SMITH LEADS...

10th with $118,000; Bruce Devlin, 11th with $112,000, and current PGA champion Dave Stockton, who was 12th with $108,000.

Smith, who began the day tied for the lead with Casper and Shaw, was the only one of this group to play in the morning, starting out at 8:15 when the greens were quite hard and still icy in spots.

On the opening holes, it didn't look as if he would be anywhere close to the lead when the day ended, left alone being two strokes ahead.

"I was really scrambling on the first four holes," Bob said. "I didn't hit a single green in regulation and I consider myself most fortunate to have lost only one stroke to par in that stretch."

"I missed seven greens in all, but my chipping and putting was exceptionally good and this is what saved me. I had seven one-putt greens and took only 29 putts the whole round."

The "nervous" start by Smith, who began on the 10th tee, was highlighted by three great saves. He chipped up to within six inches of the cup on No. 10, 24 inches on No. 11 and four feet on the par-13th "after hitting a real amateur second shot."

His lone bogey came on the 12th when he over-clubbed and went 20 yards past the green.

"After those first few holes, though, it was all roses until the last two holes where I hit my worst two putts of the day," Bob said. "They cost me two birdies. I missed a six-footer on the eighth and then a two-footer on the ninth after making a great third shot to the green."

Last year Smith, who is considered to be one of the brightest young prospects on the tour, competed in 37 tournaments and was in the money 26 times with three finishes in the top 10—the best being fifth in the L.A. Open. He shared the halfway lead in the Colonial but faded to ninth.

Biggest improvement over last year's play in the L.A. Open has been recorded by Jacklin, who is only three strokes off the pace.

A year ago, Jacklin finished dead last... "71st, seven strokes behind the 70th man."

"I was 71st," the British star reminded writers, "seven strokes behind the 70th man."

Two of the most spectacular shots of the tournament so far have been recorded by the veteran Johnny Bulla, who won the L.A. Open 30 years ago in 1941. He holed out his approach on the par-4 18th on Thursday for an eagle two and almost got a hole-in-one Friday when his tee shot on the par-3 third stopped less than three inches from the cup.

College Aloha for Plunkett, Dummit, Burns in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (UPI) — The North, led by miracle-maker Jim Plunkett of Stanford, is a three-point favorite to beat the South today in the Hula Bowl football game, which is celebrating its silver anniversary.

Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner and the man who guided the Indians to a second-half comeback victory over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl, most probably will draw the starting nod over Notre Dame's Joe Theismann and Rex Kern of the Buckeyes.

The South, not without its share of signal-callers, will have to choose from among Mississippi's Archie Manning, SMU's Chuck Hixson and UCLA's Dennis Dummit, from Long Beach.

Also performing for the South will be Cal State Long Beach's Leon Burns, who was the victorious West's leading rusher with 88 yards in last week's Shrine Game at Oakland.

All the players are seniors closing out their collegiate careers.

John Ralston, head coach for the North, will have excellent receivers for his quarterbacks in Bob Newland of Oregon, his own Bob Moore, Nebraska's Joe Orduna and Stan Brown of Purdue.

John Brockington of Ohio State will supply the bulk of the running along with Orduna and Northwestern's Mike Adamle.

The game, which will be played under a special rule that will permit the team behind in scoring to have the option to kick or receive after every score, likely will be a high-scoring affair.

Billie Jean Blasts USLTA President

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billie Jean King, America's No. 1 woman tennis player, Friday accused U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. president Bob Colwell of being "more concerned of his personal feelings than with the advance of tennis."

Mrs. King, in San Francisco to help launch the first-ever women's pro tour, said that Colwell is willing to reinstate only eight of the 10 women the USLTA suspended last September for playing in unsanctioned tournaments.

Billie Jean added that she and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco are the two the USLTA is not willing to reinstate.

"He wants to keep us out because we once were professionals," Mrs. King said. "Well, he is in for a bit of a surprise because we (all 10 women) are pledged not to return unless all of us are reinstated."

"As for myself, I couldn't care less about reinstatement. The only tournaments the suspension can keep me out of are the Wightman and Federation Cups, and I have no intention of playing in either."

Mrs. King then accused the USLTA of being hypocritical and playing politics.

"They should classify all of us as professionals," she said.

Pastorini, Hunter in Sr. Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Dan Pastorini, Santa Clara's passing and kicking star, and strongarmed Scott Hunter of Alabama have drawn starting assignments at quarterback for the 22nd Senior Bowl game today when 60 top collegians launch their professional careers.

The game generally is regarded a tossup, matching an explosive North aerial attack against a rugged South defense.

Lou Saban of the Denver Broncos said his North team "is better than last year's," and Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets says his South squad "compares favorably" with any of those he coached previously.

Each member of the winning team will receive $1,500, while the losers get $1,250. In the event of a tie, each player draws $1,375.

Pastorini, voted the outstanding player in last week's East-West Shrine game, tossed 35 touchdown passes during his career, hitting on 293 of 549 for 3,820 yards.

Hunter, who was hampered this year with a shoulder separation, set 16 Alabama records during his career in which he completed 382 of 672 passes for 4,899 yards and 27 scores.

North runners are Clarence Davis of Southern California, John Riggins of Kansas, Jim Harrison of Missouri and Fred Willis of Boston College.

Queens of Court to Give Exhibition Next Week

Tennis clinics will be staged at five high schools and a junior college next week by women stars competing in Long Beach's Billie Jean King Invitational. The four-day tournament starts Thursday.

Mrs. King, a Poly graduate, and Rosemary Casals will demonstrate tennis techniques and then rally with student netters at Poly in twin all-school assembly programs at 10 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Monday. A photograph of Billie Jean will be presented to the school for its Hall of Fame.

On Tuesday at 11 a.m., Mrs. King and Miss Casals will offer a free, open-to-the-public demonstration in the Cerritos College gym.

Darlene Hard and Judy Tegart Dalton will appear at Millikan High and Mary Ann Eisel Curtis and Denise Carter at Lakewood High Tuesday afternoon.

Wednesday morning, Ann Haydon Jones and Kristy Pigeon will be at Jordan High and Valerie Ziegenfuss and Peaches Bartkowicz at Wilson High.

Others entered in the $14,000 tournament here are Nancy Richey Gunter, Francoise Durr, Stephanie DeFina Johnson, Kerry Melville, Karen Krantzke, and Tony Frelz.

Competition begins at 11 a.m. Thursday and Friday at the Billie Jean King Tennis Center in Recreation Park and will continue until 9 p.m.

Semifinal and final round matches will be played Saturday and Sunday beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Long Beach City College gymnasium.

CUNNINGHAM AGREES TO 76ERS PACT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers has signed a five-year contract with the National Basketball Assn. team, claiming his agreement to jump next season to the American Basketball Assn. has been breached by the ABA.

Shelly Bendit, an attorney who represents Cunningham, said the All-Star forward felt free to renegotiate his pact with the ABA's Carolina Cougars.

Hull Unanimous Choice for NHL West All-Stars

Combined News Services

Bobby Hull, only 12 goals away from surpassing Maurice Richard as the second-highest goal scorer in National Hockey League history, was a unanimous choice Friday to the West Division team for the all-star game in Boston Jan. 19.

Seven other Black Hawks, including Bobby's brother Dennis, were selected by the West Division writers — three from each city — and St. Louis landed three spots.

The Kings, Philadelphia, Minnesota and California were shut out but each will be represented by one player to be selected by coach Scotty Bowman, former coach of the Blues.

The vote:

x-Injured (replacement to be chosen).

'NOT COMMITTING MYSELF, BUT ...' Ryun to Try Comeback

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Ryun, over the disenchantment that made him quit running 18 months ago, announced plans Friday for his track comeback.

"I'm not committing myself to anything as far ahead as the 1972 Olympics," the world record holding miler said at a news conference.

"I'll give myself a certain amount of time, and if I don't think I'm successful I'll announce my retirement."

The 23-year-old Ryun will compete in the mile Jan. 22 at the San Francisco Examiner All-American Games at the Cow Palace.

"In my mind, I have plans to run in some other meets, but I'm not ready to say which ones yet," Ryun said.

Ryun last competed in the 1969 AAU outdoor championships at Miami, Fla., in June, 1969. Mentally and physically spent, by his own admission, Jim quit halfway through the race.

"I got some letters criticizing what I had done," Ryun said. "But I had just reached my level of exhaustion and there was no incentive left to continue. I think all of us in our lives have reached that sort of point at one time or another."

The tall Kansan, who set his world record of 3:51.1 in the mile two years earlier, then disappeared from the track scene. He gained 30 pounds, to 195, in almost a year of inactivity.

He began jogging last May on the streets of Topeka, where he is a newspaper photographer, and the extra pounds quickly disappeared.

Last month, he was timed in 4:04 for the mile in a workout at the University of Kansas.

"That time put me in the All-American Games," he said Friday.

Ryun's competition is expected to include Chuck LaBenz, Bob Day and Duncan MacDonald, who have all been under four minutes outdoors.

Ryun's wife, Anne, an Ohio girl he married in 1969, was with him here Friday.

"I'd like to go back into track and relive a few things with her," he said.

The couple has a 6-month-old daughter, Heather.

Ryun, who also owns world records for 880 yards (1:44.9) and 1,500 meters (3:33.1), plans to return to Topeka next week.

He had a few West Coast interviews for news photo jobs this week.

Congressional Cup Sailoffs Start Today Over Outer Harbor Course

By DONNELL CULPEPPER Staff Writer

Even though the Congressional Cup Race of the Long Beach Yacht Club is three months away, sailoffs begin today and continue through Sunday to determine the skipper who will represent the home club in the match races March 18-20.

Barney Flam, sailing his famous Cal-40 Flambouyant, will be the man to beat. Flam has been the winner in five of the six years of match races and has represented the LBVC every year except one since Congress authorized the cup, which is becoming the Pacific Coast what the America Cup is to the New York Yacht Club.

The sailoffs for the Congressional today and Sunday will be sailed over a 2½-mile, windward-leeward, twice-around course outside Long Beach Harbor and well out of spectator range from shore. Only those having boats or who can go out with a friend on his boat will get a chance to witness the match races.

Flam will have some tough competition, starting with Charles Kober today. Kober has just purchased the Cal-40 Shibui. Kober is a veteran of many classes of sailing and an early victory for Kober over Flam could spell disaster for the LBVC veteran.

There will be four matches today and two Sunday, each one a best-two-out-of-three series rather than just man against man as is the case in the Congressional finals. Additional sailoffs in the other parts of the nation must be run this month and next to determine the 10 finalists.

Here is the way today's matches shape up:

Dr. Bill White, Sierra Madre, sailing Duello against Arch Van Palmer in Pantera; Flam in Flambouyant vs. Kober in Shibui; Dr. Mort Haskell in Vivant vs. Louis S. Comyns, El Segundo, in Ah-sante; Harry Moloscho in Gypsy vs. Roby Bessent in Victoria, which is owned by LBVC members John L. Holmes and Ronald L. Wallace.

Sunday's two matches will pit Bob Leslie, San Marino, in Joker III against the winner of the Moloscho-Bessent match, and Tom Pickard, in Duello vs. Dr. John Holiday, Tustin. The Pickard-Holiday match may be the closest match of the entire weekend of racing.

Vikings Ranked No. 2 in State JC Basketball Poll

Long Beach City College is ranked second in the state junior college basketball poll released Friday by the Junior College Athletic Bureau.

The Vikings, who finished second in the final state ratings last year, are behind Golden West College of the Southern California Conference, which has five of its seven members ranked in the top 20, including No. 3 Cypress.

Defending state champion Compton is ranked 17. Pierce and Pasadena are other Metropolitan Conference schools rated.

The ratings, with records prior to this week's play in parentheses:

1. Golden West (14-2). 2. Long Beach (12-2). 3. Cypress (13-1). 4. Contra Costa (9-5). 5. San Joaquin Delta (10-4). 6. San Diego Mesa (12-3). 7. Los Angeles City (13-4). 8. Fullerton (12-3). 9. College of the Siskiyous (10-4). 10. San Francisco City (9-5). 11. Cerritos (10-4). 12. L.A. Pierce (12-4). 13. Pasadena (10-5). 14. Rio Hondo (11-5). 15. East Los Angeles (13-4). 16. College of Desert (11-4). 17. Compton (10-5). 18. Merritt (10-4). 19. The outgoing American River (11-4). 20. Modesto (11-4) and West Valley (12-4).

Amazin' Kings Meet Montreal in TV Game

MONTREAL (Special) — There's no explaining the Kings, but the Montreal Canadiens will try to figure them out in a National Hockey League matinee match today.

It will be the halfway point in the campaign for Channel 5, 10:30 a.m.

the Kings, who figured to be in an uncontrollable tangle in this eight-game trip without their captain, Bob Pulford, at the controls.

Instead, while Pulford remains at home with his pulled knee ligaments, the Kings have beaten Chicago and tied Philadelphia for three points — more than they figured to collect on the entire trip.

"Sometimes these things have a reverse effect," coach Larry Regan said. "The guys figure, 'they'll all have to work a little harder.'"

In two encounters, the Canadiens won in Montreal, 0-1, and the Kings won in Inglewood, 7-2 — both teams' worst losses of the season.

TELE-VUES Two New Shows Slated by Ch. 9

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Ch. 9 is starting a couple of new shows Sunday, "Pet Set," with Betty White at 4:30 p.m. and "Like Young," at 6 p.m.

"Pet Set," as the name indicates, is about animals and their owners, many of whom, for rating purposes, are famous celebrities.

The first show scheduled has Mary Tyler Moore and her two poodles, one of which is not housebroken at middle age. The problem is discussed by a dog doctor who demonstrates a "Canine Communicator," which enables him to "talk" with the dog, according to the press release.

Others on the opener are Bill Logan, poodle trainer who says poodles have "tracking degrees" like bloodhounds and Cathy Ellis, a hairstylist, who demonstrates what's "in" for poodles.

Future shows will feature James Brolin, Carol Burnett, Bob Barker, Lorne Greene and their family pets.

Second new show, "Like Young," is a Canadian import hosted by Jim McKenna and includes singers Oliver and Joe Tex; a feature on The Fifth Dimension preparing for a concert and some film on The Association.

The new lineup on Sunday moves the William F. Buckley Show to 10 p.m. which will be followed by movies, labelled "Movie Classics" — and some of them are although I'm not too sure about the opener "The Razor's Edge." Anyway it's old, 1947.

SOME OTHER old films, also in the "classics" category, will start Monday on Ch. 11 when the station begins a week-long Laurel and Hardy Festival nightly at 11 p.m.

The following films will be shown:

Monday — "Bohemian Girl" and "Pardon Us;" Tuesday — "Our Relations" and "Way Out West;" Wednesday — "A Chump at Oxford" and "Pack Up Your Troubles;" Thursday — "Sons of the Desert" and "Blockheads;" Friday — "Swiss Miss" and "Saps at Sea."

NBC, Ch. 4, Friday night began revamping its schedule with the introduction of the British-made series "Strange Report," starring stage actor Anthony Quayle. The show replaced the canceled "Bracken's World."

Other changes to take place on Ch. 4 this month includes shifting the Monday night movie from movies-made-for-theaters to movies-made-for-TV, which will eliminate some of the heat arising from criticism about butchering films to air them in allowed time without "editing." The made-for-TV product is tailored to fit the time-slot, and presumably won't need editing for censorship reasons. This new policy begins Monday night.

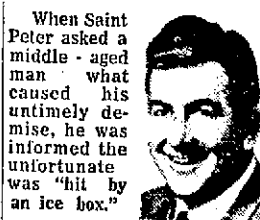

"Adam-12," currently broadcast from 8:30 to 9 p.m., Saturdays, will move to 9:30 p.m., Thursdays, effective Jan. 21, and replace the cancelled "Nancy." This will permit "NBC's Saturday Night at the Movies" to run from 8:30 to 11 p.m., allowing

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER

HARBOR CHEVROLET

When Saint Peter asked a middle-aged man what caused his untimely demise, he was informed the unfortunate was "hit by an ice box."

Another person appeared at the Pearly Gates and explained to St. Peter that he had found a man in his home kissing his wife, and in a fit of passion, picked up the ice box and hurled it at his wife's lover — killing him instantly. For doing so, he continued, he paid the supreme penalty in the electric chair.

Folks, don't you get "boxed in" on a bad deal and get the wrong spell! Best see Ol' Larry at Harbor 3770 Cherry — GA-6341.

for longer motion pictures. "Julia" and "The Don Knotts Show" reverse order beginning Jan. 19, with "Julia" going to 7:30 p.m., Tuesday and Knotts' show starting at 8.

DOUGLAS FINLEY, vice president and general manager of KTLA, Ch. 5, has resigned as head of the station. The news release gave no reason for the action, but Variety, the trade paper, said it was in keeping with an understanding when he took the job that he would leave if he was not able to upgrade the station's rating position in a specified period.

1970 to Be Remembered for 'Critical Squeeze'

NEW YORK — Here are the business highlights of 1970 — a year in which business was caught in a critical squeeze between lagging demand and sharply increasing costs.

In January, the government announced a cut in key space programs, for the 1971 fiscal year, raising the prospect of a layoff of 25 per cent of the employees involved in space work in the public and private sectors.

The space cutback combined with a decline in defense spending threatened the stability of leading aerospace contractors. One of them, Boeing, was forced to slash its Seattle work force to a level which caused a 10 per cent unemployment rate there.

General Electric and striking unions reached a settlement which provided for wage increases over a 40 month period averaging 80 cents an hour above the old rate of $3.25 an hour.

The first reduction in the prime lending rate in more than 18 months occurred in March when this key rate was cut to 8 from 8½ per cent. The prime rate is the interest banks charge to their most creditworthy corporate borrowers.

The stock market, in its 18th month of decline, hammered down the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks on May 26 to 631.16, the lowest point for the blue-chip indicator in more than seven years. A record breaking rally sent the Dow above 700 three sessions later. The protracted decline in prices and shrinking volume hurt many brokerage houses financially.

Plagued with a severe cash squeeze, Penn Central Transportation Co., the nation's largest railroad, entered bankruptcy reorganization proceedings in June.

Expiration on June 30 of the income tax surcharge, pared to 5 per cent last January, added $2 billion to individuals' purchasing power over the next six months.

A settlement of 12-week Chicago trucking strike, resulted in an increase in the national Teamster contract, which reportedly cost the trucking industry an extra $800 million.

The Nixon administration, issuing its first "inflation alert" in August, mildly criticized what it said was inflationary price increases in the tire, tobacco and electrical power fields.

Ford and General Motors answered the mounting competition from foreign carmakers with subcompact models introduced in September.

Financially hard-pressed Lockheed Aircraft Corp. got a break when its banks agreed to advance the $30 million left in the company's $400-million line of credit and also gave the defense contract a new line of borrowing of up to $600 million, pending settlement of the corporation's claims against the Pentagon.

A cut in the prime rate in September brought that key interest rate to 7½ per cent from 8 per cent.

Real growth in the gross national product of 1.4 per cent in the third quarter, the first substantial advance of the GNP in four quarters, failed to stem a rising tide of unemployment. The level of unemployment in November rose to 5.8 per cent of the work force, the highest rate in 7½ years.

Two cuts apiece were made in November in the prime rate and the discount rate, the interest charged by the Federal Reserve to commercial member banks. A recent round of reductions brought the prime rate to 6½ per cent and the discount rate to 5¼ per cent.

An eight-week strike against General Motors Corp. by the United Automobile Workers union in November ended with fattest auto labor package in history, a 30 per cent wage increase over three years.

The House of Representatives passed a trade bill, similar to one tentatively approved by a Senate committee, that would impose import quotas on textiles and shoes and would preserve oil import restrictions.

The second "inflationary alert," couched in more sharply critical language than the first, singled out General Motors and the UAW among others for contributing to inflationary pressures.

In a move designed to increase oil production and reduce oil prices, the Nixon administration shifted control of oil input on the Gulf of Mexico's outer continental shelf from the state level to the federal government.

Macmillan's Bruce May Is Retiring

Forty-three years of oil industry memories for Bruce M. May culminated this week as the California-born oil executive retired as superintendent of manufacturing for Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co., Inc.

May's mantle goes to Robert A. Griggs of Lakewood. Griggs, 34, and a 14-year employee, has served since mid-1969 as superintendent of Macmillan's Signal Hill refinery.

Some retirement travel is planned by May and his wife Muriel, who reside at 1818 McKenzie St., Long Beach. A 1971 tour of the western U.S. and part of Canada will include visiting their son Howard, 40, and family in Skokie, Ill.

A daughter, Joan Goldsmith, lives in Santa Monica.

Since May is a camera enthusiast of long standing, any travel will include photography.

As for oil field memorabilia, Mrs. May shares some from the more rough-shod early days. As May smilingly put it:

"Armed with my USC diploma as a chemical engineer I went to work May 1, 1928 on Signal Hill as a loader for Macmillan. That tour lasted exactly one day. Then I was shipped for four years to Siberia," (meaning Macmillan's then-Borger, Texas refinery).

A YEAR LATER, the strapping young six-footer "Escaped on vacation" to California, married his junior college days' sweetheart at Riverside (where both were born) and took her back for three hectic years of house-keeping at Borger, beginning in a one-room cottage.

Hectic honeymoon?

Said May: "In Borger things were such that one or two shootings per week was part of the local entertainment."

The rest of May's lengthy Macmillan career centered about Signal Hill. If, however, Borger stole the thunder for flamboyancy in the early days, it was only by comparison.

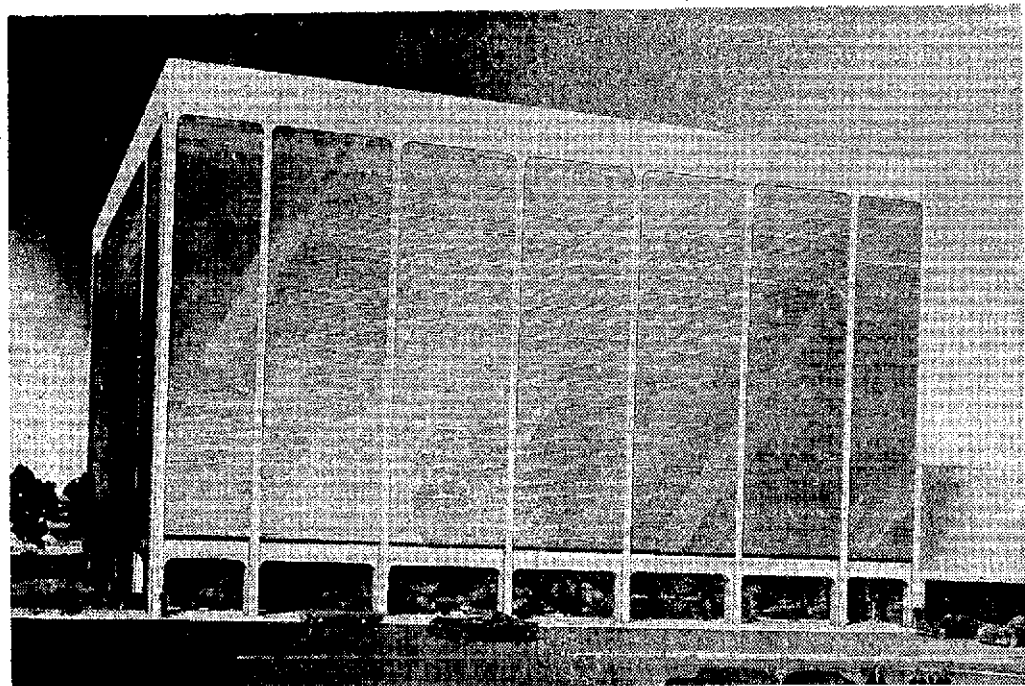

On the Hill, almost every day projected some high-light in a booming field jammed with thousands of tall, wooden derricks planted so thick that in some instances their anchoring legs actually intertwined.

A few memories are historic.

Such was the 1933 'quake when, except for two badly damaged tanks, "Macmillan rode through in beautiful shape," said May. In fact, any plant shut-downs experienced throughout the years were both few and brief, including those during the War II black-outs.

LONG BEACH, CALIF., SATURDAY, JAN. 3, 1971

TELEPHONE SWITCHING OFFICE . . . Immediate Start For L.B. Project

RISE IN LONG BEACH

General Tel Plans $60 Million Facility

General Telephone Company of California started work in Long Beach this week on a $5 million building designed to house $5 million worth of telephone long distance switching and other equipment.

Attending groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Long Beach Toll office at 5077 E. Lew Davis St. were civic leaders, officials of General Telephone Company and guests.

Speaker at a luncheon held at the Long Beach Elks Club following the groundbreaking, was Paul N. Malmgren, vice president of operations.

Completion of the Long Beach Toll Building is set for the second quarter of 1972.

Installation and testing of the office's ultra-modern switching equipment will be completed the second quarter of 1974 when the system is scheduled to be cut-over for customer use.

THE NEW Long Beach Toll building will include three reinforced concrete sublevels for parking.

Above ground will be four full floors and, initially, a partially completed fifth floor constructed of precast concrete and brick filler walls on a structural steel frame.

The first floor will be set back approximately 20 feet, an area which will include the building entrance, pleasant landscaping and a driveway to the street.

The 200-by-125-foot site on which the building will be located, currently provides parking for the company's Lakewood Central Office workers. The existing structure and the new Long Beach Toll building will adjoin and have connecting pedestrian walk ways and cable equipment.

THE LAKEWOOD Central Office, completed in March 1942, was expanded in 1951, 1953 and 1967 to provide more equipment space for services to an increased number of customers.

"Due to the size of the existing building, it is impossible to continue the same reinforced concrete — brick filler treatment planned for the new building on to Lakewood Central Office," said Emory Simon Jr., head of building engineering.

project has been called by company officials the largest single project upon which General Tel has ever embarked.

The building's equipment will serve 22 central offices in General Tel's Long Beach, Downey and Whittier exchanges.

Expanded direct distance dialing also is planned for extension into Huntington Beach and Westminster.

Contractor for the new 120,000-square-foot structure is P. J. Walker Construction Co. of Los Angeles. Architect is Kenneth S. Wing of Long Beach.

"We do, however, plan to repaint and rework the existing building so that its appearance will blend in with that of the new building," he said.

BESIDES the new equipment which handles 200,000 telephone calls per hour, the new Long Beach unit will house a telephone traffic network management center, carrier and test board equipment, equipment which early in 1975 will provide customers expanded direct distance dialing with minimal supply for continuity of telephone service in case of emergency.

The turbines, air conditioning equipment, and elevators will be located in a service area on top of the building.

Another protective feature will be climate control in the building's computer processor room, to be kept at 72 degrees with a humidity of between 50 and 60 per cent to protect sensitive equipment.

HIDDEN MEADOWS

Escondido Area Now Booming

Amid majestic outcroppings of rock and manicured carpets of grass, Hidden Meadows, a $12 million private recreational community five miles north of Escondido on U.S. 395, has become one of the finest exhibits from the standpoint of cooperation between developer and environment.

Reached via Mountain Meadows Road, Hidden Meadows is laced with California live oak trees centuries old. Cattails and wild lilac grow in abundance along a whispering brook and around the edges of its lakes.

It is a spectacular setting, and the natural thinking is that it shouldn't be disturbed.

And it won't be, except that the developer's knowledge on how to control nature's once-in-a-while rampages will be added. This "cooperation" will permit Hidden Meadows to progress into one of the nation's foremost examples of land development, with the most careful attention directed toward the preservation of natural beauty.

Guided by Continental Heritage Corporation of Riverside, Hidden Meadows has the creativity of experienced developers. The project is inland from Oceanside about 20 miles over State Highway 78. It is nestled in the hills, with massive rock outcroppings.

YET IN THIS TRANQUIL scene, where the tiny coastal Columbian blacktail deer munch on the lawns, there is a distinct absence of smog and traffic noise.

As it is now, with a gentle brook rolling over a waterfall across the golf course, Hidden Hills will see some changes for the better, reports W. Gordon Heath, president of Continental Heritage Corporation.

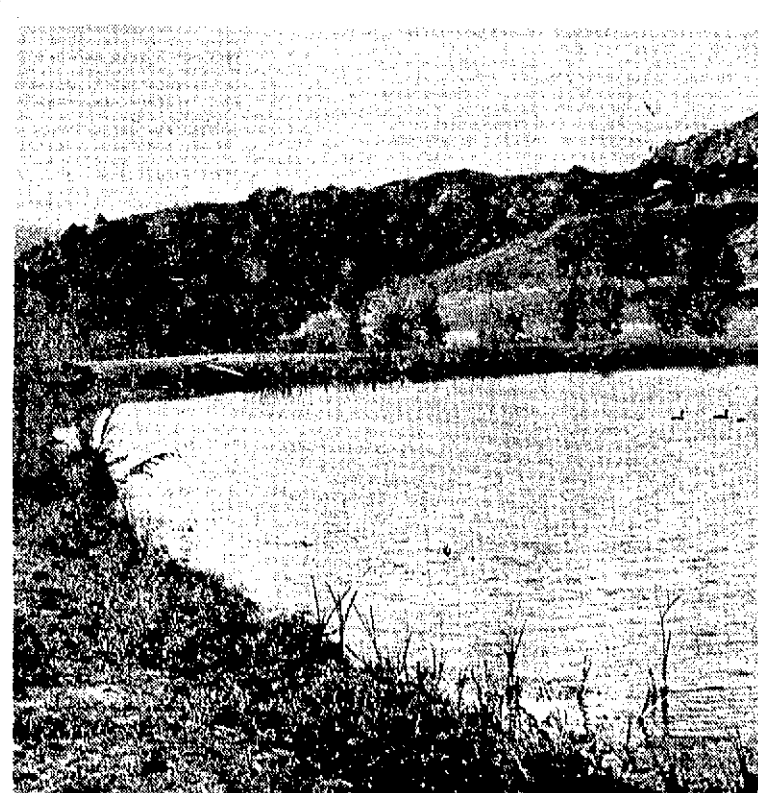

"We would never have been more fortunate than to find this kind of site for the master plan development of Hidden Meadows," he said. "Its nearby location to Escondido, one of the most thriving communities in Southern California, is in no way revealed by the beauty and tranquility of the area."

"Hidden Meadows is on its way to becoming a private recreational community of perhaps just 1,050 families, all living in a style of environment, free from smog and traffic congestion, so very rare these days."

"Hidden Meadows will become an environmental gem for others to emulate."

Residential Construction to Perform Strong in 1971

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Prediction: residential construction promises to be the strongest performer in the private economy during 1971.

The prediction comes from a man who should know. He is Everett C. Spelman, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Adds Spelman:

"Housing starts are expected to show an increase of about 15 per cent, bringing the year's total to 1.65 million units — but softening demand may produce overbuilding in selected local markets."

When the projected activity is translated into dollar value, and rising costs are added to the gain in physical volume, housing construction will post a 20 per cent gain over the dollars spent for housing last year, Spelman believes.

"Thus," he adds, "residential construction will move from about $29.5 billion in 1970 to $35.5 billion in 1971."

The unemployment level, the chief of the MBA believes, will remain above 5.5 per cent through most of the year.

"Clearly," he concludes, "the readjustment and the recovery in the economy will not be completed by the end of 1971. However, progress will have been made..."

Running Even

Contracts for new construction in the 11 western states totalled $844,292,000 in November, 18 per cent above the November 1969 amount, it was reported by the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

The value of contracts in the nonbuilding category was almost double the comparable year-ago amount and provided most of the strength in western construction during the month.

Residential building was up two per cent in November, while the nonresidential category trended even with the year-ago amount.

"On a seasonally adjusted basis, the November western construction figure showed a 3 per cent gain over the October amount," explained George A. Christie, Dodge vice president and chief economist. "This is on top of an eight per cent September-October increase."

"Nonbuilding construction, particularly public works such as dams and reservoirs, and river and harbor facilities, has been providing most of the West's construction strength in the closing months of 1970," Christie said. "This has partially filled the gap left in the Western total construction picture by a depressed level of non-residential building."

One and two-family housing accounted for all the strength in Western residential building during November, with both apartments and the nonhousekeeping category trending below year-ago levels. Contracts for residential building in the West totalled $362,342,000 for the month, two per cent above the year-ago amount.

At the end of eleven months, Western residential building totalled $4,657,732,000. This is equal to the value contracted during the comparable 1969 period. The apartment component of the residential total, however, is 14 per cent ahead of 1969's 11-month total. "One- and two-family housing and the small nonhousekeeping component have been keeping the cumulative residential total in check this year," reported the Dodge economist.

Optimism Shows

In comparison to last year's bleak economic picture, 1971's national economic forecast appears optimistic despite a continuing upward spiral in the nation's unemployment, Vice President and Economist Robert T. Parry of Security Pacific National Bank's Research Department discloses.

In an address before the Harvard Business School Club of Northern California, at the Engineers Club, Parry compared the national economy of 1970 with that of previous years.

"Although final fourth-quarter figures are not yet available, 1970 is certain to post a dismal record in terms of real economic growth, price behavior and unemployment levels," he observed.

"While 1971's first six months will be strong as the national economy makes up for losses sustained during the auto strike — and manufacturers stockpile steel in anticipation of a third-quarter steel strike," Parry projected, "our national economic growth will slow during the final six months of 1971."

He indicated that minimal progress will be made against inflation, which will average 4.1 per cent next year, after climbing more than five per cent in 1970.

Welfare Game

Here's something to ponder:

A well known Long Beach income property owner happily rented a two-bedroom house to a young couple expecting their first child. That was two long months ago.

The couple, the owner learned, had come from Oregon five months before and the young man had made good on his first job here.

Shortly after the couple moved in, her sister and baby arrived from Oregon — and also moved in. The sister applied for welfare and was immediately accepted.

A few days later, the young wife's parents and four younger brothers and sisters made the trek from Oregon to greener pastures. They also moved in, applied for and received welfare.

Just before the holidays, the young wife's married sister and husband (who allegedly had quit his job in Arizona) joined the clan. Their purpose: to obtain welfare in California.

The small house's plumbing began to break down. The water bill, paid by the owner, jumped from $7 to $21.

Calls to the health department, the welfare department, and personal talks with the renters have provided the owner no relief from his problem.

He has attempted to raise the rent in an effort to lessen the numbers burden at the small residence.

The renting couple reject that idea, but faithfully pay the agreed-upon rental.

But, the young man has revealed to the owner, he is toying with the idea of giving up his job and joining his relatives on the welfare roll.

A Child Shall Lead...

The fine entertainment at the annual dinner meeting for members of the Apartment House Association, Southern Cities, was provided by the International Children's Choir, conducted by Easter N. Beekly, Long Beach.

It's a talented group of youngsters — and not an adult there failed to be reminded that, aside from the religious theme, Christmas really is for children.

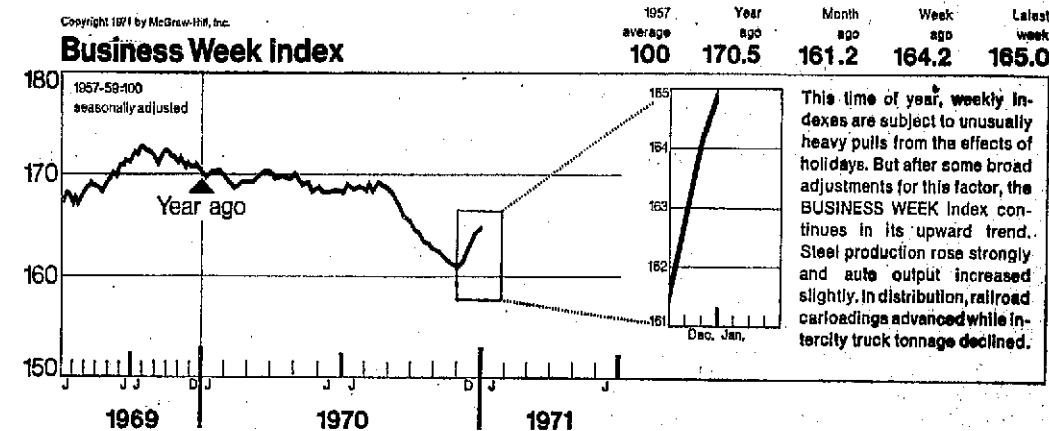

And so it was fitting that the invocation should be provided by a young girl — Kathie Zechmeister, daughter of AHA's executive director, Eugene L. Zechmeister.

Her prayer:

"Dear God, we are all gathered around this table to thank you for the many things you have given us. Thee has given us freedom, which has helped to make all men equal — as one. You have given us leaders of our country such as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and many more which have made our country what it is today.

"Dear Jesus, heal our nation's wounds. Bless us all, especially at the hour of our death."

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY WEEK

This Is Going to Be Busy Year

The Business Week index rose 0.5 per cent — this can partly be attributed to a .5 per cent increase in steel due to continued strike hedging.

Auto production went up 3.3 per cent, a 58.5 per cent increase above a month ago and a 49.6 per cent increase above a year ago. A Chrysler assembly plant was the only one to schedule overtime.

Crude oil refinery runs rose 2.0 per cent in the current week. The 5.8 per cent drop below a month ago was due to the combination of the Louisiana oil fire and the explosion at Humble Oil.

Electric power output rose 1.4 per cent, a 12.9 per cent increase above a year ago.

Intercity truck tonnage went down 0.4 per cent.

Miscellaneous car loadings increased 1.9 per cent. All other carloadings jumped 20.4 per cent due in part to a rebound from the one day strike and an increase in the transportation of primary forest products — up 12.1 per cent from a week ago.

THIS IS GOING TO BE A BUSY year for U.S. manufacturers as the economy recovers from weakness and a series of major strikes, Industry Week said this week.

A look at basic industries by the business magazine found that production and shipments will be rising along with demand for the majority of them, and they hope profits will too.

The gains will come in the face of problems and uncertainties that range from import competition and strike threats to defense cutbacks and attacks on pollution, the magazine said.

Industrial production will fully recover from its 1970 setback by rebounding nearly 6 per cent this year from its 2.2 per cent drop during the business slowdown, Industry Week stated. Annual growth after that will vary around the 5 per cent range, the magazine added.

Labor and profit problems are expected to team up in this year's second quarter to create the worst steel product delivery squeeze the nation has seen.

Manufacturers will be stockpiling steel to beat expected price increases and hedge against the possibility of a steelworkers' strike when union contracts expire July 31, the magazine explained. This should generate record shipments of 65 million net tons of steel in the first seven months. An unprecedented 29 million of them will be in the second quarter, and that's just about industry capacity.

SOME INDUSTRY OBSERVERS look for a long and bitter strike of steelworkers. If there is, its impact would be widespread, and foreign mills might disregard voluntary quotas and ship more steel to the U.S. than the 16 million net tons now indicated, the magazine said.

Meanwhile, hedge buying is getting a late start because of the money squeeze and the disruptions of the strike against General Motors Corp. If there is no steelworkers' strike, mill business will go from boom to bust until stockpiles are worked down.

Nevertheless, U.S. mills could ship a record 96 million net tons of steel in 1971.

Consumption of steel could equal the 1968 record of 103 million net tons. Automakers are expected to use a record 21 million net tons, and the container and appliance industries also will be consuming the metal at a high rate.

Raw steel production, the magazine commented, is expected to be only 135 million net tons because mills entered 1971 with large stocks. The record was 1969's 141.3 million tons. The 1970 output was about 132 million tons.

EXPORTS OF STEEL will slip to 4 million net tons for all of 1971. In the first 10 months of 1970, steel exports from the U.S. totaled 6.4 million net tons.

Raw steel production is expected to be on the up-grade this week after a lull during the year-end holidays. Industry Week estimated that output in the week ended Jan. 2 totalled 2,336,000 net tons vs. 2,257,000 tons produced in the preceding week.

The expected rise in steel production is having a buoyant effect on steel scrap, a raw material for steel-making. Industry Week's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap rose to $40.17 a gross ton from the preceding week's $38.83. In 1970, the composite ranged from a high of $48.33 in late February to a low of $35.50 in November and December.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Flaxberry Bush Business Booms

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Although the economy as a whole has been limping rather badly, a few enterprises are flourishing. For example: nurseries.

"Business is definitely up," Robert Lederer, vice president of the American Association of Nurserymen, reported a few days ago.

"We've analyzed the reasons and find that in uncertain economic times Americans tend to put more time and money into improving their immediate surroundings. This is true even in areas of heavy unemployment in the country."

"During the depression a lot of people grew their own food. This may be a similar expression of feelings and emotions when the going gets tougher, taking to the soil and getting enjoyment from watching things grow."

Lederer is so right. Like a month or so ago my wife suggested that I take the family out to a movie.

"There's a good film playing at the Bijou," she said.

"I'm really not in the mood for a movie and with economic conditions so uncertain I hesitate to invest in theater tickets anyway," I replied. "But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll drive out to the Elysian Nursery and buy a new flaxberry bush. Then we can put it in the soil and watch it grow."

My children jumped up and clapped their hands. "That's great, Dad!" one of them exclaimed. And the other one said, "We would rather watch a flaxberry bush grow than go to a movie any old day."

My wife said, "But where are you going to find room to plant it?"

"I was thinking of planting it next to that flaxberry bush I bought last week instead of taking you out to dinner," I told her.

She said, "Well, we all get a thrill out of watching the flaxberry bushes grow, but that is mainly a daytime activity. When I mentioned going to the movies I was thinking in terms of nighttime entertainment."

"Good point," I said. "How about after supper let's go out and shine our flashlights on the flaxberry? Does that sound like a fun evening?"

They all agreed it was a capital idea and I've never been so popular with my family. Every time I bring home another flaxberry bush, they hold hands and dance around me singing "Welcome, Mr. Nice Guy."

A MRS. Clingclosser of Rutting, Mont., writes: "Your interviews with William Shakespeare have illuminated and clarified many of the great issues of our times. Could you now sound out the bard for his impressions of Christmas shopping?"

Couldst and wouldst:

Q. Long time, no see, Mr. Shakespeare. How have you been?

A. "I have been in such a pickle since I saw you last. I am almost out at heels. So weary with disasters, tugg'd with fortune."

Q. That bad, eh? When you are in the stores do you have trouble getting a clerk to wait on you?

A. "Clean starved for a look."

thy young blood, make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres, thy knotted and combined locks to part, and each particular hair to stand on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine."

Q. I have heard reports that much of this year's merchandise is inferior.

A. "A deal of skumble-skamble stuff. The very rats instinctively have quit it. I would that thou and I knew where a commodity of good names were to be bought."

Q. I also have heard that a lot of merchandise is over-priced.

A. "You pay a great deal too dear."

Q. Some shoppers complain that by the time they get to the store the sale items already are gone. Would you comment on that?

A. "The ripest fruit falls first. What you cannot as you would achieve, you must perforce accomplish as you may."

Q. Isn't that pretty hard on your pocketbook?

SALTA PONTIAC general manager Nick Varzak presents keys to three cars to Lew Spencer as Raul Gonzales watches.

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

When Lew Spencer started calling around to buy 5 Pontiac Firebird Trans-Ams the first few dealers he called came back with something like "G'wan you're pulling my leg. You don't really want to buy five cars." And they said they didn't have them. Then Spencer called Salta Pontiac in Long Beach. Salesman Raul Gonzales said, "We'll get 'em." And within a couple of days Salta delivered the keys to three of the five.

Spencer is with Godsall Holdings Atlantic, Ltd., Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. The company is preparing the Pontiac Firebird Trans-Am to run in the Daytona, Florida 24-hour race January 30-31 and Sebring, Florida 12-hour race in March.

They're buying these five to be converted to replicas. They'll look like the racing car and be used by E.F. Goodrich for promotional purposes in five Goodrich sales zones across the country.

Nick Varzak, general manager of Salta, presented the keys to Spencer. Raul Gonzales who made the sale, was on hand.

REMEMBER WHEN CIGARS still sold for a nickel, television screens were about seven inches wide, and the Oldsmobile mechanic cleaned the cylinders of your car's engine with pulverized walnut shells.

Don't laugh... it really happened.

Not too many years ago, the service departments at many Oldsmobile dealerships — and other garages — were offering to restore lost engine power by scouring a car's engine's combustion chambers with a carbon blaster.

The blaster, operating on compressed air, used crushed walnut shells to perform the cleaning operation. It may sound like a shadowy confidence game, but it wasn't. In fact, veteran automotive service technicians today recall with fondness the walnut shell carbon blaster. They claim it produced up to a 25 percent boost in engine power after cleaning accumulated carbon from the engine combustion chambers.

Soon, however, engine design changed. Cubic displacement expanded, horsepower increased, and fuels improved. As engines burned fuel more completely, carbon accumulation in the combustion chambers diminished.

Today, engines operating on low-lead or non-lead gasolines, including all of the 1971 Oldsmobile engines, experience virtually no carbon build-up in the chambers at all.

As far as its original application was concerned, the walnut shell carbon blaster long ago fell victim to automotive progress. But the strange device still enjoys limited use at oil refineries where special one-cylinder engines require periodic carbon cleaning to retain top efficiency.

Torpedo Recovery Perfected

A new torpedo recovery system that uses an inflatable float to bring practice torpedoes to the surface has been delivered to the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Md., by Goodyear Aerospace Corporation (GAC).

The float fits flat around the torpedo during firing, and automatically inflates around it following an exercise run.

Its buoyance, equal to approximately 500 pounds of sea water, causes the torpedo to surface and protrude from the water much like the top of a fishing bobber.

The system was conceived jointly by the Naval Ordnance Laboratory and Goodyear Aerospace. Tested recently at the Naval Torpedo Station, Keyport, Wash., the system was successful in all attempts to bring torpedoes to the surface for recovery.

"THESE systems will save the Navy thousands of dollars a year by assisting in the recovery of torpedoes fired during development and training operations," Goodyear Aerospace noted. "The new system promises to be more effective and reliable than those previously used."

Larger systems, using hybrid gas generating techniques, also have been developed. The technology applied to the recovery of torpedoes is readily adaptable to the commercial recovery of other submerged objects, GAC said.

Economy Lull Not Axing Tree Sales

Christmas trees in California are big business and this past year was no different, according to a California Business survey of statewide growers, wholesalers and retailers.

Industry sources say the lull in the general economy had not axed yule tree dealer optimism. In fact,

Christmas timber experts say competition on the retail level was the keenest ever.

Bob McLain of the California Department of Forestry in Sacramento estimates that of the 40 million trees sold across the nation this season, California led with 4.5 to 5 million trees sold.

"California produces one million trees or more than 25 per cent of all Christmas trees sold in the state and almost all of the white pine, Monterey pine and silver tips," McLain explains.

HE SAYS the four million remaining trees were imported from Pacific Northwest states, the Douglas fir the most popular variety.

"They are the most popular and most reasonable because they can be bundled easily and shipped down in carloads," he explains.

McLain adds the imported Scotch pine is growing in popularity but it costs more because it is shipped in from Michigan.

Dan Dotta, also with the California Forestry Department, says the state agency received "no indications this year of a curtailment in harvesting due to the adverse economy."

He says the number of persons venturing into state forest and taking out a $1 permit to chop down their own trees is on the increase. But the forester doesn't lay the reason on economics alone.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

When Landlord Makes Rules, Play by Them

By DON CAMPBELL

You've got to admit that the man who makes the rules of the game has a slight advantage when it comes to playing it.

Alas! The same thing holds true in the business world — you take out a loan that is pretty much on the terms laid down by the bank, and you pay the surety deposit that the landlord demands.

MR. CAMPBELL:

Why do lending agencies charge so much to transfer a mortgage?

We recently bought a house and assumed the balance of the prior mortgage made by the previous owner. This was a 6 per cent GI loan, and a favorable interest rate for us, according to today's inflated standards.

I'll admit that they probably would much rather have closed out the old mortgage and written a new, high-interest loan to me, but since this was a government-guaranteed loan they had no choice but to accept me. There was no investigation, no paper-work except my agreement to assume the balance.

Their assumption fee was $50! The actual cost to them couldn't have exceeded $10 or $15, including any filing fees and office paperwork.

Were they mad because they had to continue the 6 per cent mortgage and therefore soaked me an exorbitant fee? Was it legal for them to do this? If it was, do you think it was ethical?

Most of your answers, when it comes to "points" etc. are favorable to the lending agency rather than the private citizen, even though the point charge is obviously an under-the-table kickback. When does the poor consumer get a chance, instead of the big corporation? — MR. F.N.

ANSWER: I don't know what the lender's office overhead is, but I would assume that the $50 assumption fee covers it very nicely.

I would hardly call it "exorbitant" though, in the light of your own savings — both the immediate money savings in not having to find new financing and, more importantly, in the interest money you are going to be saving over the next 10, 15 or 20 years by virtue of the lower rate you are paying.

It seems to me the thing works two ways: if the $50 fee by the lender was too high in terms of what he did, it seems fair enough in terms of what you didn't have to do. By your own admission "there was no investigation, no paper-work except my agreement to assume the balance."

I'm also a little pained by the charge that I favor the lending agency in discussing "points." I've said many times that I disapprove of the point system because it's a subterfuge and unduly penalizes the real estate seller.

If this makes me look "anti-consumer" and "pro-big corporation," I'm sorry, but I think you'll find that the real villain in the piece is neither the consumer nor the lending company, but the bureaucrats who try to legislate the money market without regard for supply and demand and, in the process, either dry up the supply of lendable money altogether, or encourage the creation of Micky Mouse gimmicks — like points — to get around the unrealistic restrictions.

COME AND LEARN ABOUT MY REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT COURSE

CO-SPONSORED BY THE APARTMENT ASSOC. OF LOS ANGELES CO. AND THE ORANGE COUNTY APARTMENT HOUSE ASSOCIATION.

PROVEN METHOD

William Nickerson and Programs for Human Development (PHID) have developed the most exciting, action-filled investment course you have ever seen. It's a literal avalanche of ideas, techniques, and procedures; but above all it teaches you a METHOD that you can put to use right now. It shows you how to develop your own investment plan, whatever your present financial condition, and it will lead you to your dream of financial security and independence.

BEYOND THE BOOK

The course goes way beyond Mr. Nickerson's book to pour out hour after hour of exciting money-making concepts, and procedures that will start you safely on your way and help you to avoid many costly mistakes. Mr. Nickerson's book, of course, is the basic text but most of the things covered in the course are not in the book.

GOOD TIMES AND BAD

This investment plan works in so-called good times and bad times. Why? Because, if you follow the NICKERSON METHOD your profits do not depend on inflation or economic boom. There is no surer, safer, steadier way to build financial success than the NICKERSON METHOD of real estate investment.

FREE PREVIEW LESSON

There are FREE PREVIEW LESSONS being presented for your convenience throughout the area this week. Come and discover, without cost or obligation, what this course can do for you. In the FREE PREVIEW LESSON you'll:

1. Learn the basic principles of the NICKERSON METHOD.
2. Learn how to use the power principles of LEVERAGE and PYRAMIDING.
3. Receive a complete overview of the FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE DAY SEMINAR and the EIGHT-WEEK COURSE.

SCHEDULE OF FREE PREVIEW LESSONS
TIME: 7:30 P.M.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY
Mon., Jan. 11 & Thur., Jan. 14—Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 15433 Ventura Blvd., Sherman Oaks

WHITTIER
Tuesday, Jan. 12—Elks Lodge

ANAHEIM
Tuesday, Jan. 12—Disneyland Hotel

LONG BEACH
Wednesday, Jan. 13—Edgewater Hyatt House

LOS ANGELES
Wednesday, Jan. 13—Century Plaza Hotel

AFTER PREVIEW LESSON

After you discover the fantastic value of this unique course you'll want to attend either the FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE DAY SEMINAR, which is a basic one-day course to get you started (the price is only $55.00), or the full EIGHT-WEEK COURSE.

Eight-week courses will start the week of Jan. 25th in: Long Beach, San Fernando Valley, Whittier, Los Angeles, Santa Ana, and Anaheim.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE DAY SEMINAR

This SEMINAR is a lively action course which will send you charging out the door knowing what to do and how to do it. Here is just a partial list of things you will learn:

1. You will learn how to use the power-principles of PYRAMIDING and LEVERAGE.
2. You will learn how to get other people to finance your purchases and all your costs, even in today's puzzling and difficult money market.
3. You will learn how to purchase your first investment property and how large it should be. If you already own property, you'll learn how to turn it into a springboard to larger, better property.
4. You will learn the difference between apparently attractive deals you should avoid, and valuable "uncut gems" others have ignored.
5. You will be given a simple checklist that will cut your property shopping time in half.
6. You will learn how to find the absolute top price you should pay and simple negotiating principles that will always get you the best deal.
7. You will learn a simple method of measuring a property's improvement and income potential, before you buy.
8. Besides all of that, lunch is provided free.

NICKERSON IN PERSON

The highlight of the day will be a no-holds-barred question and answer session with William Nickerson himself and our panel of real estate and legal experts. This is your chance to meet Mr. Nickerson and learn how to apply the NICKERSON METHOD.

DATE: SAT., JAN. 23, 1971
SANTA MONICA CIVIC AUD. EAST WING

OUTSTANDING FACULTY

William Nickerson, the world-famous author, lecturer and real estate millionaire will appear in person along with a faculty specially chosen for their wide and practical experience in real estate investment and their outstanding abilities as teacher-communicators.

STUDENT REACTIONS

"It is the only investment method I've seen where you can calculate your potential gains with some degree of accuracy, where there is good potential gain and little downside risk." Cliff L. Funk, Santa Monica.

"It is a must before investing your money in income property. It gives one confidence to proceed in real estate development and which direction is the best to follow." Dr. Leon H. Rockwell, Las Vegas, Nevada.

"Well worth taking. It would take months to accumulate that information and would cost much more in experience." Dr. H. Burkan, Lynwood.

"The course is well prepared and presented by knowledgeable men who have made a success of the method—your interest is held by what is presented." F. R. Corbin, Allamhra.

"The field work associated with the course provided the stimulation and self-confidence I needed to carry on by myself." Philip A. Ross, Santa Ana.

WHAT IS THE NICKERSON METHOD?

In the simplest possible terms, the method can be summarized as:

1. Buy only residential income property which is basically sound, but in need or refurbishing.
2. Use maximum available financing.
3. Make physical and operational improvements to increase income and thus the market value.
4. Sell or trade for profit; acquire a larger building, and repeat the process.

Robert F. Dewey, with Bank of California since 1961, has been named executive vice president in charge of bank's Southern California division, headquartered in Los Angeles.

L.B. Chamber Notes

An informational meeting is scheduled for members of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce at their 7:15 a.m. quarterly breakfast at the Pacific Coast Club Wednesday.

D. G. Quinlan, vice president-economic development, and several of his committeemen will report on Chamber programs and projects.

President Roy L. Anderson asked that reservations be made promptly to assure a set at the session.

William Lyon to Address Group

William Lyon, president of Wm. Lyon Development Company and executive vice president of American Standard, Inc., will address the Young Home Builders Council at the Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles, Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Lyon's topic will be "Emphasis in the 70's."

State Mutual to Begin Belmont Shore Branch

State Mutual Savings, principal subsidiary of Far West Financial Corp. (NYSE, PCSE), said this week it has been authorized to begin operations in Belmont Shore.

According to John S. Griffith Jr., president of the 81-year-old savings institution, approval for the Belmont Shore office—second State Mutual facility in the Long Beach area—was received from the California Savings & Loan commissioner.

Addition of the new branch brings to eight the number of State Mutual savings offices in Southern California. Just six months ago, the $367 million Association had only two offices, its main office downtown Los Angeles and a branch in Santa Monica.

Monte Davis Named 'Quality Dealer -- '71

Monte Davis of Long Beach has been named a Time Magazine Quality Dealer Award winner for 1971.

Davis, president and owner of Glenn E. Thomas Co., 340 E. Anaheim St., is one of only 71 dealers in the entire nation selected for the honor.

Announcement of Davis' selection was made by George W. McClellan, manager of Time's Detroit office.

Davis will be honored at the national convention of the National Automobile Dealers Association to be held Jan. 16-20 in San Francisco.

Davis was nominated for his honor by the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, of which he is a past president.

MONTE DAVIS

The Dodge dealer started his career in the automobile business in 1945 in the dealership he now owns.

"OUR rapid expansion in number of offices and activities during 1970 contributed significantly to the progress of Far West Financial and State Mutual Savings," Griffith noted. "Other important factors included our reduction in Federal Home Loan Bank borrowings—from 45.1 per cent last June to 19.4 per cent currently, and our asset growth—from $350.8 million to $367 million in the last six months."

State Mutual's new Belmont facility, Griffith added, is conveniently located in a primary commercial-shopping complex between Seal Beach and downtown Long Beach—adjacent to the affluent community of Naples. The office complements its Lakewood branch.

Wall Street Briefs

HOUSTON (UPI) —Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc., reports the index of credit reporting has steadily improved in the coming months. In November a total of 7.4 million credit references was reported, a drop of 4 per cent from a year earlier but the smallest year-to-year monthly decline since June.

LOUISVILLE (UPI) —Dow Chemical Co. said expansion of its Reliance Universal Chemical Coatings plant at High Point, N.C., at a cost of $1 million, is about completed and a production will be stepped up sharply there next month. Employment will be built up from 160 to 200. Capacity will eventually be doubled to one million gallons monthly.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —The University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance is graduating an unusually large fall class of masters of business administration this week. Four per cent of the 175 in the class are blacks or from other American minorities, 16 per cent are foreigners and 4 per cent are women.

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. (UPI) —A new world speed record for helicopters was claimed by Sikorsky Division of United Aircraft Corp. at 216.7 miles an hour for its S-67 Blackhawk. The previous mark was 212 mph held by a Super Frelon build by SUD Aviation of France, set back in 1963. The Blackhawk is a Sikorsky company venture although designed primarily for low-risk military use. Test pilot Byron Graham of Bridgeport set the speed record.

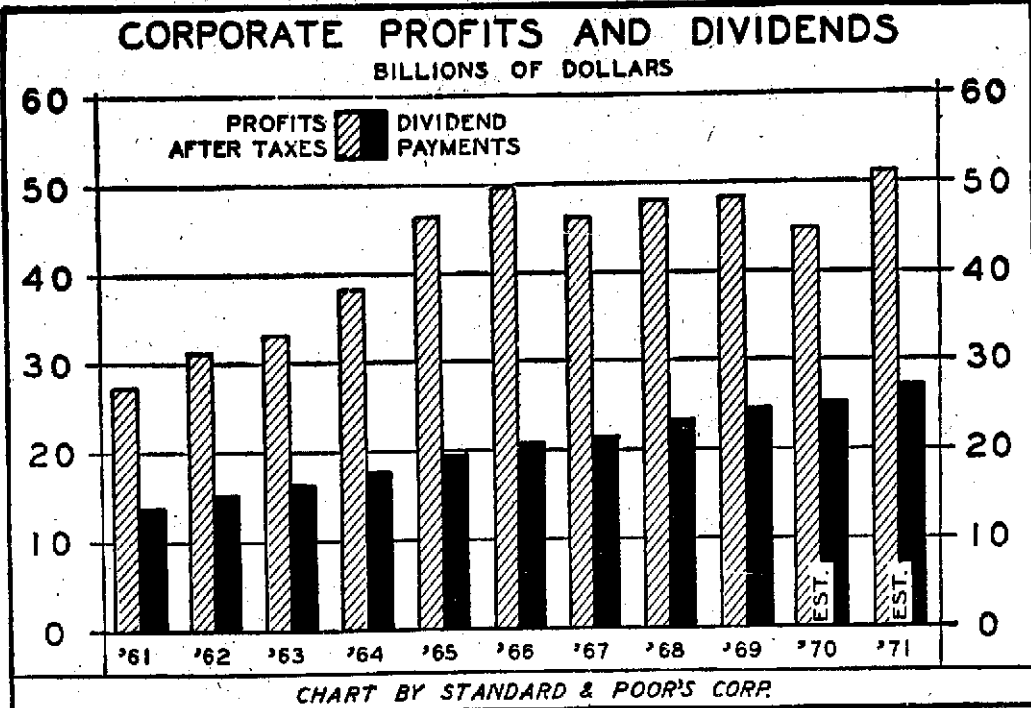

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A licensing board of the Atomic Energy Commission has authorized construction of a second 1.6 million kilowatt unit at Diablo Canyon Nuclear Power Plant of Pacific Gas & Electric Co. at a cost of $230.2 million. Westinghouse Electric Corp. of Pittsburgh will build the nuclear steam system.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) —The Dutch parent firm of Akzona Corp., has agreed to convert its holdings of $24.978 million in Akzona 5 1/4 per cent debentures into 740,000 shares of common stock. Akzona president Claude Ramsey said. Akzona is the parent of American Enka and other enterprises in the man made fiber, chemical, salt, pharmaceutical and wire and cable industries.

PEORIA (UPI)—Caterpillar Tractor Co. said it is developing a new rubber and steel tractor tire with a replaceable tread belt. The new tire involves radical changes in the design and shape of tire carcasses, the company said. It still is in a development stage.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) —Columbia LNG Corp. announces it has revised plans for its proposed liquid natural gas plant in Maryland to meet objections of Gov. Martin Mandell. The new plant will eliminate the use by the plant of large quantities of Chesapeake bay water. The governor had feared using Chesapeake water would seriously harm the ecology of the bay area. A gas reevaporizer will be used in the plant instead of a water reevaporizer.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Far West Financial Corp. says it has repaid $20 million in borrowings from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and intends to make a further payment of $8 million. The $20 million repayment reduces indebtedness to the Home Loan Bank Board to less than 25 per cent of its savings deposits.

RETIREES

Margaret Cunningham, Long Beach, has retired after 41 years' service with Southern California Gas Company. For last 27 years, she has been cashier-in-charge in San Gabriel Valley Division.

CHOICE

Montie Parzell, Torrance, with Crocker National Bank since 1953, has been named assistant manager of bank's Hawthorne-Carson office in Torrance.

Campaign Praised

"We feel the Kiwanis Club is doing a great public service in sponsoring a drug-abuse educational campaign and we are happy to be a part of their program," said William Panzich, manager of Coast and Southern Federal Savings and Loan Association's branch at 200 E.

Third St., Long Beach. Panzich said his office has underwritten one of a quantity of educational kits purchased by Coast and Southern—to be turned back to the Kiwanis Club for distribution to schools after being displayed several weeks at the branch office.

BOOKS IN REVIEW

Credibility of Monetary, Political Authorities Doubted in Inflation

THE IMMORALITY OF INFLATION, by Charles E. Williams, Theo. Gaus' Sons, Inc.

Inflationists, says the author, "pray upon the fears and suspicions of an uninformed populace in order to perpetuate that most cruel, most disruptive and insidious of all taxes ... inflation."

In Chapter Nine, Williams — after going into detailed telling of inflation and its beginnings — sets about describing the "Reversing the Spiral."

"The credibility of the desire of our national political and monetary authorities to truly stifle the inflationary psychology within the United States was brought into question almost at the outset of the purported endeavors (of 1968 and 1969)."

He proposes these moves to reverse the upward spiral: (1) Destroy the Federal Reserve System's present ability to monetize the national debt; (2) Retire all federal debt in 10 years; (3) Prohibit future federal deficits; (4) Return monetary system to gold-backed currency and allow citizens to legally buy and hold gold; (5) Phase out federal welfare; (6) Permit interest rates to fluctuate free of governmental intervention.

There are other suggested moves, but the above are his most understandable. — RLB.

PRACTICAL WORKSHOP LIBRARY, Arco Publishing Company, Inc., $24.70 for six-volume set, $4.95 each.

Do-it-Yourselfers probably are like I am. They go to the library to research, say, how to do electrical repairs. Or they buy the book.

Then, later, they're faced with, say, a plumbing problem. Result: back to the library or to the book store for a new research effort.

Arco Publishing Company may be destined to become the best friend do-it-yourself addicts ever found, all because of its newly released six-volume workshop library.

If it's a carpentry problem you face, reach for Volume 1; concrete work, just take the next book down; and likewise for tv repairs, electrical work or painting-wallpapering.

A safe bet: this set of books can save you hundreds of dollars. — Robert Beckman.

SURVEY OF BROADCAST JOURNALISM 1969-70, edited by Marvin Barrett, by Alfred I. dePont-Columbia University, Grosset & Dunlap, $1.95.

This easy-to-read paperback tells how broadcast journalism covered the environmental crisis, the dissent of youth, plight of cities, the Vietnam war — and answers attacks by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. — RLB.

AMERICAN FISCAL AND MONETARY POLICY, a New York Times Book, Quadrangle Books, $2.45.

The United States is headed toward a trillion-dollar economy, yet its fiscal and monetary policies are shaky at best.

They seem unable to cope with inflation and unemployment, "while the allocation of resources continues seriously askew." — RLB.

Popular Villa Monterey More Than Half-Sold

Villa Monterey, a $1.7 million home project by the John B. Clark Co. in Fountain Valley, is over half-sold, according to Walker & Lee Real Estate, the broker.

Only 22 units remain. For complete privacy, each villa is surrounded by a seven-foot masonry wall. Almost every room in the homes open out either to an inner atrium or outdoor garden.

"The whole idea of this development is to have complete land usage and privacy," Clark said.

VILLA Monterey offers three and four-bedroom homes with two baths and large family rooms. The single-story homes contain from 1,814 to 2,050 square feet, in addition to two-car garages, atriiums and porch areas.

The villas are priced from $35,750 to $37,300 with VA, FHA and conventional financing.

Under a special program, veterans are required only $495 as a down payment.

Three model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk on Silkree Street, two blocks west of Brookhurst Street and one block north of Warner Avenue in Fountain Valley.

Casa Del Amo Offers Free Merchandise

Merchandise worth $1,000 will be given with home ownership at Casa Del Amo in Cerritos under one of three homebuying plans available.

According to a sales counseling representative from Walker & Lee Real Estate, a Casa Del Amo home can be purchased under one plan for $27,990, a saving of $1,000 with a small down payment and closing costs added.

Under another plan, the price is $28,990 with the buyer receiving $1,000 in merchandise of his choice.

The buyer pays only closing costs under this plan.

Under Plan No. 3, veterans may move in for $1 down, purchasing a home for $28,990 and receiving $2550 worth of merchandise. No other costs are incurred by qualifying veterans.

Casa Del Amo's three and four bedroom homes are offered with VA, FHA and conventional terms. Some 12 different architectural styles, from contemporary California to Spanish, are available with the project's 192 new one and two-story homes.

La Palma Landmark Homes 'Big Value'

At just over $18.50 per square foot, Landmark Homes in La Palma represent big home values in the area, according to Signal Landmark, Inc.

The homes, each with over 2,000 square feet of living area, still are available at last year's prices, $33,875, said vice president and general manager Robert R. James.

"The trend for builders during the last year has been to build smaller rooms and thus smaller homes to combat the increases in homebuilding labor materials," James said.

"Our homes in La Palma were still being built during this period and now we believe that we have the only large family-sized homes in La Palma selling for only $18.50 per square foot."

In addition to the 10 four bedroom, three bath and three car garage homes, Landmark also has a model home for sale at its subdivision on Walker Street, between South Street and La Palma Avenue.

The model is landscaped in both rear and front yards, color-coordinated with decorator wallpaper, upgraded carpeting and custom-like accessories.

Country Kitchen Home Opening

This weekend marks the grand opening of Bill Rousey's newest Country Kitchen Homes development in Cerritos where five plans are offered, ranging from three to five bedrooms with two baths, in a choice of 14 classic exteriors.

One plan features an upstairs "Premier" room, roughed in, ready to be completed as extra bedrooms or large hobby and recreation room, depending on the preference of the new owner, says sales agent Frank McFarland.

Carpeted living rooms have massive stone fireplaces with gas log-lighter.

In some plans the living room is at the rear of the home, with outdoor access through wide sliding doors.

Large kitchens with adjacent family rooms feature range and double ovens with exhaust dishwasher and disposers, ceramic tile counters, hardwood cabinets and roomy pantries complete the total convenience meal preparation center.

Service area with outlets for laundry equipment is in the garage, with hallway entry in most plans. There is also extra storage space in the large double-garages.

MASTER bedrooms are spacious with wide wardrobe closets and bath. Some suites have separate dressing area.

The homes are fully insulated, weatherstripped and ducted for airconditioning. Rear yards are enclosed, gate included.

Take the new Artesia/Riverside Freeway, (Highway 91) to Carmenita turnoff, turn north to Artesia Boulevard, and east to Country Kitchens entrance.

HOMES DIRECT FROM SPAIN

Homesick Spaniards will find it hard to believe the authenticity of Villa Monterey, by noted custom-homebuilder John B. Clark. Clark, well-known creator of Orange County's famous Gainsborough communities, found a way to slip past customs officials' true continental Spanish villa styling, complete with all the amenities of contemporary living. Old World charm and privacy are evident throughout Villa Monterey, California's only imported garden-patio homes.

Villa Monterey

1. Atrium intimately opens to a very private master suite and spacious family room.
2. Garden terrace kitchens offer convenient pass thru windows to outside patio entertainment center.
3. Rear bedrooms look outward to personal garden areas.

Divisions Merged by UCB

United California Bank has announced the formation of the largest mortgage banking division of any commercial bank in the United States.

Norman Barker Jr., president of California's fifth largest banking institution, said the United California Mortgage Company will be formed through a merger of three United California Bank mortgage divisions.

Of the three mortgage companies making up the new division, Marble Mortgage, and Insurance Funds Mortgage were acquired by United California Bank in 1965, and Pacific States Mortgage in 1966. Each company had functioned as a separate division prior to this time.

Because mortgage banking companies are primarily measured by the size of their loan servicing, United California Bank ranks number one in the nation among commercial banks engaged in mortgage banking, and number seven in the country among all mortgage companies.

ONLY 45 HOMES TO GO

Final Unit Opens at Cerritos Village

The grand opening of the final unit of homes will take place this Sunday at Cerritos Village, a community at 195th St. and Norwalk Blvd., built by George Buccola in Cerritos.

"We have only 45 homes left in this unit," said Marshall Graham, district sales manager for Walker & Lee, exclusive sales agents.

Cerritos Village, with homes priced from $29,995 to $34,800, offers homes in one and two stories, with three and four bedrooms and two or three baths. There are a total of 12 exterior styles from which to choose and immediate occupancy is available, Graham emphasized.

ALL OF THE homes come with all amenities and luxury features, such as complete built-in kitchens. Included are automatic dishwashers, ranges, ovens and waste disposal.

"Families purchasing one of these homes can move right in," Graham added, "since there are no 'extras' to buy. Wall-to-wall carpeting and rear fencing are included, as are heavy shake roofs and concrete driveways."

"For families buying now, we still might be able to offer them complete color selection and lot choice," Graham said, "although we can't guarantee it for much longer."

The furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk and can be reached by driving south on Norwalk on the Artesia Freeway.

Bonus Items Included at Landmark Homes

Promotional bonus items are said to add up to $4,000 savings to homebuyers at Signal Landmark's subdivision of Landmark Homes in Cerritos, according to estimates given by sales counselor R. B. Sheakley.

For an unspecified time Signal Landmark will pay the homebuyer's escrow fees and closing costs (estimated to be almost $500), property taxes for six months ($360), and second trust deed payments for two years ($720).

In addition, if a person buys a Landmark Home during the next 30 days, the developer will include front lawns, a sprinkler system and draperies (estimated to cost homeowners over $2,000), Sheakley said.

Five per cent down payments is all that is required for home ownership at the Landmark community on South Street, between Norwalk Boulevard and Bloomfield Avenue. The homes are priced from $28,375 to $32,875.

SIGNAL Landmark is offering 115 new one and two-story homes of three and four bedrooms. Five different floor plans are available with a choice of 15 exterior designs.

To reach the new Landmark Homes model area from the San Gabriel Freeway, take the South Street exit east. From the Artesia Freeway, take the Norwalk Boulevard exit south to South Street and turn left to the five model homes.

BBB: BUYING WISELY

Is Money Covered With Germs?

By LARRIE O'FARRELL
Better Business Bureau

Dear BBB: My husband thinks I'm a crazy woman because I just know that money — particularly bills — are covered with germs. Why doesn't the government or somebody outlaw this kind of money when it is so unhealthy? I'm concerned for my family.

I think something should be done about the way everyone spreads germs around and comes into contact with all sorts of illnesses through money. — Crazy Lady

Dear Lady: Relax. The Better Business Bureau checked with the U.S. Treasury Department and we found out the green stuff isn't so filthy after all. The Treasury tells us that the paper used in printing money has both germicidal and fungicidal components in it.

And the ink also contains bacterial inhibitors. The possibility of contracting an infection or an illness from handling paper money is remote.

Dear BBB: I have three children in high school and the questions they ask are usually way over my head — and my husband's too. We want to buy an encyclopedia — a really good one that will help the children in their studies and answer a lot of their questions.

How can we find out which encyclopedia we should buy? — Mrs. M. Smith

Dear Mrs. Smith: We suggest that you visit the reference section of the public library and ask to see a copy of General Encyclopedias in Print.

This volume analyzes in detail the knowledge offered, the suitability for children and people of different ages. We strongly advise that you check this source of reference before buying any encyclopedia.

Dear BBB: I've just about got everything all ready for cleaning so it will be ready for the cold weather. Every year I have a fight with our dry cleaner. This year my husband said to check with the Better Business Bureau before I even take all the drapes, clothes, etc. in to be cleaned.

The reason I lose my temper every year is that some of my drapes and bedspreads come back with marks or spots on them that weren't there when I took them in. What do you advise? — Clean Housewife

Dear Clean: Your dry cleaner may not be responsible for damage, marks or spots on clothing or draperies. For example, we know that after cleaning some household items come back torn or faded. And when this happens most women blame the cleaner and demand that he replace them or make some adjustment. That's why it's important to understand the main causes of fabric failure. There are many invisible enemies to household fabrics.

Dust and grim, for example, work their way into fibers, causing them to separate under the slightest agitation.

Fumes from furnaces, cooking and smoking also damage fabrics. Most fibers suffer seriously when exposed to direct sunlight which also attacks some types of dyes.

You can help your dry cleaner by telling him the source of stains or discoloration — this way he can try to remove the stain before it can be set by another solvent and become permanent.

It's a good idea to know your fabrics and to follow the manufacturer's direction for their care. Don't expect silk clothes to take the same sort of wear as other, tougher materials, do.

Dear BBB: I bought a lovely summer dress last week and found a very inexpensive olive green scarf that really set it off. I wore the dress and scarf to a dinner party.

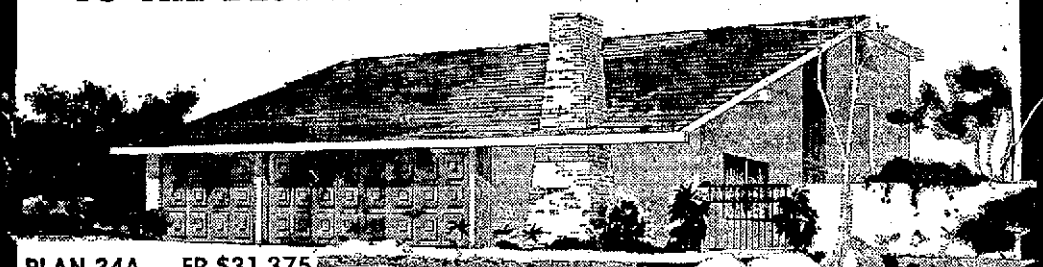

When I arrived home I took off the scarf and put it on the back of the chair. My husband walked past and a spark from his cigarette caused the scarf to burst into flame.

It was horrible! If I had been wearing it I could have been seriously burned. How can items

NEW WESTMINSTER COMMUNITY

Village West Homes Eliminate Wasted Space

Homebuilding design takes an unexpected turn to economy and total utilization in the new Village West community previewing in Westminster, built by William Krueger.

By eliminating wasted sideyard and rear yard space, these homes offer up to 5,000 square feet of usable living space for the family to enjoy in privacy.

"We feel this new concept has proven itself to be a successful building tool and has received a favorable response in other areas of Southern California," said Dick Kurth, of Kurth and Associates, sales agents for the complex.

The special preview showing of these homes will continue this week, featuring three and four-bedroom models with two baths, selling at $28,995 and $29,995 with financing terms available.

"Now is the ideal time for families to inspect these models while they have the best choice location of their home and the selection of interior features," said Kurth.

Also included in these homes are many extras, available to the buyer at no additional cost.

Some of these items are built-in electric kitchens with range, oven and dishwasher.

Village West is within 10 minutes of both the South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa and the Huntington Center in Huntington Beach. Both areas afford the best in supplying shopping needs.

The campus of the University of California at Irvine, Golden West Junior College and other schools are also nearby.

To inspect these models, take the San Diego Freeway to Westminster Avenue, or Springdale Avenue, then south on Springdale to Camphor Avenue, then right on Camphor to the models. The sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

FORMAL DINING ... Easy At Maybrook

Maybrook Price Includes Extras

In the new home market today, many families find buying a new home at the basic purchase price is like buying a stripped-down automobile.

By the time you've chosen drapes, carpeting, roofing material, fireplaces and a few of the optional features to make your life a little easier your home price has increased another $5,000.

Maybrook is different among middle-price-range homes because it includes quality features that are usually offered only as options. When you visit Maybrook in Westminster, you'll notice the difference right away.

CUSTOM wood beam and stonework trim as well as the highest quality shake roof add a look of individuality and elegance to the home.

Walk through gracious, double-door entry halls of imported Italian marble or terrazzo into the living room with plush shag carpeting and a massive, dramatic fireplace setting of marble, stone or brick.

Maybrook is located in Westminster. Take the San Diego Freeway to Beach Boulevard turnoff. Go south to Edinger and turn

MARK OF BUILDER EXCELLENCE

Shapell's Interiors Announced

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held last week at 15100 Golden West St., Westminster, for Shapell's Interiors, newest venture of Shapell Industries.

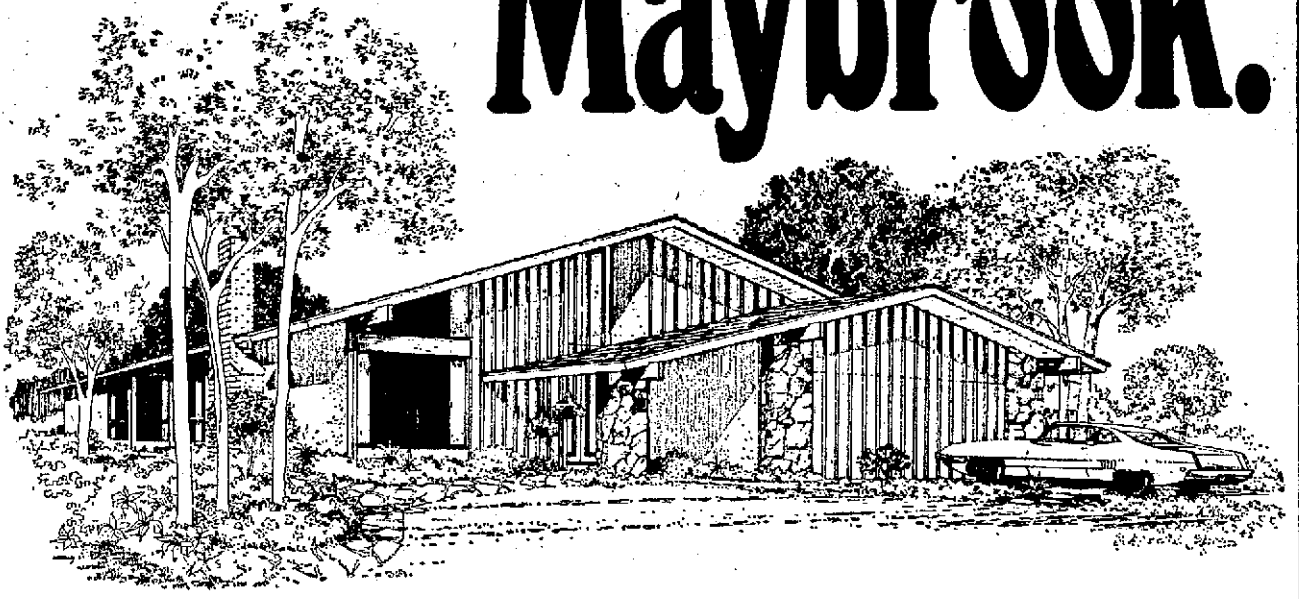

The decorating studio will provide professional decorating services to the public and will offer a complete line of custom furnishings from knobs on cabinet doors to one-of-a-kind appointments.

The building will also house the Home Center of S & S Construction, a division of Shapell Industries. The studio will service the homebuyer in selecting carpets, draperies, exterior paint colors, options and other furnishings.

Big attraction of the 6,000-square-foot studio will be a complete two-bedroom model home actually built inside the building. A furniture gallery, accessory gallery, terrace furniture showroom, carpet salon and drapery salon will display wares in every price range.

The building is due for completion in May.

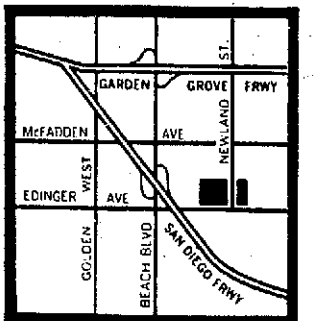

Before you buy, you owe it to yourself to see the all new Maybrook.

Before you make this important investment...come out and see how much more S&S offers! See how many luxury home features we include in your basic home price! Like complete rear yard fencing, luxurious shag carpeting throughout your home, wood shingle or heavy shake roof, draperies, and beautiful kitchens with ceramic tile and hand-finished hardwood cabinets. NEW MAYBROOK offers exciting 1 and 2-story homes, up to 6 bedrooms, many with 3-car garage.

Maybrook homes are built by S&S Construction Co., a division of Shapell Ind., so you can be assured that extra care has been taken to insure the buyer that his home is built of the finest materials available. For instance, S&S is one of the few major California homebuilders using GENUINE LATH & PLASTER in every wall and ceiling. S&S has been honored by three Homeowner Association Awards for excellence in home construction and has been cited twice for superior quality construction in the Congressional Record of the United States Congress.
